

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Explanatory Memorandum.

(Reprinted from the Evening Continuation School Code of 1893.)

I.—The objects contemplated in the Evening Continuation School Code are :—

- (a.) To give freedom to managers in the organisation of their schools.
- (b.) To offer to managers and teachers a wide choice of subjects adapted to the various needs of scholars and districts.
- (c.) To suggest, both concisely and in detail, courses of instruction in these subjects.
- (d.) To enable managers to combine instruction in subjects for which grants are paid by the State with instruction in other subjects for which no such grants are paid, but which it may be for special reasons desirable to include in the curriculum.

II.—The following are the principal changes introduced :—

- (a.) The attendances of persons over 21 years of age will henceforth be recognised.
- (b.) No scholar will henceforth be compelled to take the elementary subjects.
- (c.) Further precautions are taken to avoid duplication of grants by the Education Department and the Science and Art Department.
- (d.) Grants will be paid as in Day Schools for the instruction of the school as a whole, instead of, as formerly, for the attainments of individual scholars.
- (e.) The fixed grant is no longer paid on the average attendance, but on the aggregate number of hours' instruction received by the scholars. This will give a direct encouragement to the prolongation of Evening School sessions, and the lengthening of meetings.
- (f.) Instead of grants for individual passes, grants will now be paid for time devoted to each subject, the amount of such grant being dependent on the value of the instruction given.
- (g.) Examination by the Inspector on a fixed day is abolished, and visits of inspection without notice are substituted.

III.—The new regulations are designed generally to meet the requirements of scholars who are no longer subject to the law of compulsory attendance at school, and who desire to prolong their education, either in the ordinary school subjects or in some special subjects in order to fit themselves for some industrial career. Evening Continuation Schools will have to meet various needs, as, for instance :—

- (a.) The case of the smaller schools which are intended mainly to supply defects in early elementary instruction, and to continue such instruction with a view to the ordinary pursuits of daily life.

- (b.) The case of schools, especially in the more populous districts, in which the general education of the scholar is prolonged, and combined with some form of useful and interesting employment.
- (c.) The case where the principal part of the work will be preparatory to the special studies directed by the Science and Art Department, or to lectures established by the County Councils, University Extension lectures, or other forms of secondary or higher education.
- (d.) The case of schools containing classes aided by the County Councils: but it should be borne in mind that grants cannot be made by County Councils towards the costs of the technical or manual instruction of scholars in Evening Continuation Schools receiving instruction in Reading, Writing, or Arithmetic (Technical Instruction Act, 1889, Sec. 1 (1) (a)).

IV.—The duties of Her Majesty's Inspector in giving effect to the provisions of the Evening Continuation School Code will be :—

- (a.) To visit without notice, on one occasion at least, and if possible on more than one, at some time at which the school is shown by the time-table to be at work, every school for which a grant is claimed, and to devote, if possible, to the inspection the whole time of one meeting of such school.
- (b.) To confer with the managers, whose presence, if it can be obtained, is very desirable, and with the teachers; to ascertain that due arrangements have been made for securing accurate registration of attendance; to examine the registers and time-tables; and to report on the qualifications of the teachers and the course of instruction.
- (c.) To hear lessons and observe the manner in which the classes are conducted; to question the scholars on the work which has been done in at least two of the subjects taught in the school; and to report generally on the instruction.
- (d.) To satisfy himself that the schoolrooms are suitable for their purpose, bearing in mind the importance of an adequate supply of artificial light.
- (e.) To recommend what Variable Grant (if any) should be paid having due regard to the opinion he has formed upon the general character of the teaching and the particular methods employed. The higher of the two grants will not be paid for any subject unless the Inspector is able to report that both the actual teaching of the subjects and the methods employed in such teaching are thoroughly satisfactory.

The duties of the Inspector are further explained in Circular 339, which is printed below as Appendix 2.

V.—My Lords will be interested to learn from the reports of Her Majesty's Inspectors the results of any successful experiments by which Evening Continuation Schools have been rendered more attractive: e.g., by means of lantern illustrations, music, manual work, discussion of some book which has been read by the class; field, naturalist, or sketching clubs; gymnastics, or other employments of a more or less recreative character. For many of these purposes grants of public money cannot be given, but provided that the managers take care that at least one hour at each meeting is devoted to the teaching of the subjects mentioned in Art. 2 of the Code, and that the instruction is systematic and thorough, every arrangement for making the school attractive should be carefully considered. For instance, besides the introduction of some of the recreative subjects mentioned above, encouragement might be given to capable lecturers to deliver, from time to time, short lectures, well illustrated, in connexion with some of the subjects in the school time-table.

VI.—Unless special efforts are made to encourage those who are leaving the Day School to continue their education at Evening Schools, the chances of success in the Evening Schools will be much diminished. Care should therefore be taken to give full information to such scholars of the times and places at which Evening Continuation Schools are held. With this object the managers of those schools should put themselves in communication with the managers of the neighbouring Day Schools.

VII.—My Lords will be glad to know from time to time of any special difficulties which appear to be connected with the work of Evening Continuation Schools with a view to their being lessened or removed. They attach a very high importance to the work which may be done under this Code, as effective Continuation Schools supply one of the most important means for turning to better account than at present the money and time now spent in the Day Schools.

EVENING CONTINUATION SCHOOL CODE, 1900.

1. The Articles of the Code of Regulations for Day Schools, so far as they are set out in Appendix 1 to this Code, apply to Evening Continuation Schools as well as to Day Schools. Of these Articles it is particularly necessary for managers to bear in mind Articles 3, 4, 8, 9, 77, 78, 79, 81, 85 (d), 88, 89. (See p. 61.)

Certain Articles of Day School Code applicable to both Day and Evening Schools.

2. Grants may be made for any of the subjects of instruction named in the Schedule to this Code, and for any other subjects sanctioned by the Board. A graduated scheme for teaching any subject must, if required, be submitted to and approved by the Inspector.

The subjects named in the Schedule are the following :—

* For the school year beginning May 1st, 1901, and subsequently no grants will be paid in respect of this subject unless provision, satisfactory to the Board of Education, is made for experimental or practical instruction therein.

- (g.) Miscellaneous Sub-jects - - - { Vocal Music.
Ambulance.
Home Nursing.
Drawing (see Appendix 3).

- (h.) Subjects for Girls and Women only { Domestic Economy.
Needlework.

Schemes for teaching these subjects are given in the Schedule.
Grants are also made for Cookery, Laundry Work, and Dairy Work as subjects of instruction for girls and women.

Subjects for which Fixed Grant only may be paid. 3. Instruction in the following subjects is recognised for the purpose of the Fixed Grant (Article 13 a.), but no Variable Grant (Article 13 b.) is paid in respect of them :—

Manual Instruction as defined in the Technical Instruction Act, 1889,* subject to the sanction of the Board.
Technical Instruction approved by the Board of Education as of distinct educational value.

Schemes of proposed Manual or Technical Instruction must be submitted to the Board at the time when the notice required by Article 11 (c) is given, unless they are in accordance with those given in the Schedule to the Code.

Suitable Physical Exercises.
Military Drill (for boys and men).
Housewifery (for girls and women).

Subjects of instruction for which grants may not be paid. 4. Instruction may be given in other secular subjects and in religious subjects, but no grant, either Fixed or Variable, is made in respect of any such instruction (Elementary Education Act, 1870, section 97 (1))

Subjects which may be taught outside the school. 5. Instruction in the subjects mentioned in Article 3, and also instruction in the following subjects mentioned in Article 2 :—

Science,
Ambulance,
Home Nursing,
Vocal Music,
Drawing.
Cookery, Laundry Work, Dairy Work, or Needlework (for girls and women), may be given elsewhere than on the school premises, provided that the general arrangements for such instruction are satisfactory, that special and appropriate provision approved by the Inspector is made for it, and the times for giving it are entered in the approved Time-Table. All other instruction must be given on the school premises, unless for special reasons the approval of the Inspector has been previously obtained.

School meeting. 6.—(a.) A school may not, except in special cases with the approval of the Board, be held at any hour earlier than 4 p.m.

(b.) No meeting of the school is reckoned at which less than one hour's secular instruction has been given in subjects sanctioned under Articles 2 and 3.

Registers. 7. The registers must be marked before the beginning of each lesson, unless the number of scholars renders exceptional treatment necessary, in which case a special plan for registration must be submitted to the Board for approval. If any scholar registered as attending is withdrawn before the end of the lesson, the entry of attendance should be at once cancelled. The registers must show clearly the number of hours' instruction received by each scholar in each subject in which he is instructed. There should be separate registers for each subject. No lesson of less than half-an-hour in length is recognised for purposes of registration.

* "The expression 'manual instruction' shall mean instruction in the use of tools, processes of agriculture, and modelling in clay, wood, or other material."
—Technical Instruction Act, 1889, Section 8.

8. No scholar may be entered or continue on the register who is under fourteen years of age, unless such scholar is exempt from the legal obligation to attend school. Evidence of such exemption must be produced to the Inspector before the end of the school year.

No pupil-teacher engaged in a public elementary school, nor any scholar in respect of whom a grant is received by a School of Science from the Board of Education, may be registered as a scholar.

9. The "school year" is the year ending on the 30th of April. School year.

10. Any person over eighteen years of age approved by the Inspector, and not being a pupil-teacher engaged in a Public Elementary School, may be recognised as teacher or assistant teacher. The teachers need not be lay persons. Teachers.

11. The following conditions must be fulfilled in order that a school may receive an annual grant. Conditions of annual grant.

(a.) The principal teacher must be certificated or recognised under Article 10, and must not be allowed to undertake duties not connected with the school which may occupy any part whatever of the school hours. (a.) Principal teacher.

(b.) The school must have met on not less than 30 evenings in the school year. Instruction must have been given in not less than two subjects recognised under Article 2. (b.) Minimum number of meetings and subjects.

If a school has been closed during the year under medical authority or for any unavoidable cause, a corresponding reduction is made from the number of meetings required by this Article.

(c.) Notice must be given annually before the beginning of the session to the Board that the managers desire a grant for the school. Such notice must state all the subjects of instruction. (c.) Annual notice to Board.

(d.) The Time-Table must be submitted to and approved by the Inspector in duplicate at the beginning of the session. The Time-Table must show the several subjects in which instruction is given, and the time allotted to each subject, and must show the arrangements made for registration. At least one week's previous notice of any alteration in the Time-Table affecting the days or hours of meeting must be given to the Inspector. The managers must also give a clear fortnight's notice to the Inspector of the date at which the school will close for the session. (d.) Time-Table.

A deduction from the grant not exceeding £1 may be made if the Inspector finds the school closed at a time when the Time-Table provides for instruction being given.

(e.) The school must have been visited by the Inspector at least once in each school year, unless some cause accepted as satisfactory by the Board prevent such visit. The Inspector's visits will, as a rule, be made without previous notice being given. (e.) Visit of Inspector.

(f.) The school must be reported efficient by the Inspector. A school will not be reported efficient unless the Inspector is satisfied that the order is good, that the teaching is systematic. (f.) School must be efficient.

- matic and intelligent, and that the scholars are making genuine progress in the subjects taught.
- (g.) Local managers. (g.) The school must have at least one local manager.
- (h.) Registers (h.) The registers must be accurately kept and periodically verified by the managers, not less frequently than once a month, at irregular intervals.
- Date of payment. 12. The annual grant becomes due at the end of the school year, and is paid as soon as may be after that date.
- Annual Grant. 13. The annual grant is made up of the several grants, which with their amounts are enumerated below, with the exception of the grant paid for Drawing under Article 15*, which is charged to the Science and Art grants.
- (a.) Fixed Grant. (a.) A Fixed Grant calculated as follows. All the hours during which each registered scholar has received instruction in subjects sanctioned under Articles 2 and 3 during the school year shall be added together, and a grant of 1s. shall be paid for every complete twelve such hours.
The Fixed Grant may not be withdrawn unless the whole grant is withdrawn.
No Fixed Grant will be paid, unless some other Grant under this Code is paid.
- (b.) Variable Grant. (b.) A variable Grant calculated upon the hours of attendance made by registered scholars in subjects specified in, or sanctioned under Article 2, subject to the following conditions and exceptions:—
- (1.) Not less than 15 hours' instruction must have been given during the school year in each of the subjects in respect of which Variable Grant is claimed.
 - (2.) A scholar must have received, during the school year, not less than 12 hours' instruction in a subject, in order that his attendances in that subject may be counted for Variable Grant.
 - (3.) In ascertaining the hours for which the Variable Grant is payable, no time shall be counted for more than five subjects in the case of any one scholar.
 - (4.) No Variable Grant is paid for Cookery, Laundry Work, Dairy Work, or Drawing, for which special grants are provided by Articles 15 and 15*.
- Number of subjects on which Variable Grant is payable. All the hours in respect of which these conditions are satisfied shall be added together, and a grant of 1s. 6d. or 1s. shall be paid for every complete 12 such hours. The Board shall decide which, if either of these sums, shall be paid after considering the report of the Inspector's visit or visits. The Variable Grant will be separately assessed for each subject.
- Rules applying to both Grants. 14. The following rules apply both to the Fixed and to the Variable Grants:—
- (1.) No scholar may be registered in an Evening Continuation School for any subject of Science, or Mathematics, forming the whole or part of any subject in respect of which he has been paid upon either for attendances, or for success at an examination, by the Board of Education, South Kensington.

- (ii.) A scholar who is receiving instruction in a Science and Art Class in one Science subject, may be registered in an Evening Continuation School for one other Science subject, but not more than one. A scholar who is receiving instruction in a Science and Art Class in two or more Science subjects, may not be registered in an Evening Continuation School for any Science subject.
- (iii.) No scholar may be registered in an Evening Continuation School for more than two Science subjects.

- (a.) Where the Inspector reports that special and appropriate provision is made for the practical teaching of Cookery by a teacher holding a certificate from some Training School of Cookery recognised by the Board, a grant of 2s. (or 4s.) is made on account of each girl or woman who has attended not less than 20 (or 40) hours during the school year [of which not more than four hours may be in any one week] at a Cookery Class of not more than 18 scholars, and has spent not less than 10 (or 20) hours in cooking with her own hands. (a.) Cookery Grant.

The time for Cookery must be entered in the Time-Table, and should not be less than a continuous hour (or hour and a half) at any meeting. Provided that, for the purposes of Article 13 (b) (3), Cookery shall be considered as a subject.

- (i.) Where the Inspector reports that there is no convenient means of obtaining a certificate, the certificate above mentioned shall not be required, but the competency of the teacher must be proved to the satisfaction of the Board.
- (ii.) For the purpose of demonstration, not more than three classes of 18 scholars may be present, provided the Inspector reports that the number present may be conveniently accommodated. But for the 10 (or 20) hours required for cooking with their own hands (during which time no demonstration lesson can be given) not more than 18 scholars shall be taught at the same time by one teacher.
- (b.) Where the Inspector reports that special and appropriate provision has been made for the practical teaching of Laundry Work by a teacher recognised by the Board as qualified to teach that subject, a grant of 2s. is made on account of any girl or woman who has attended not less than 20 hours during the school year at a Laundry Class of not more than 14 scholars. (b.) Laundry Work Grant.

The time for Laundry Work must be entered in the Time-Table. Provided that for the purposes of Article 13 (b) (3) Laundry Work shall be considered as a subject.

- (c.) Where the Inspector reports that special and appropriate provision has been made for the practical teaching of Dairy Work by a teacher holding a certificate recognised by the Board, or otherwise recognised by the Board as competent to teach Dairy Work, a grant of 2s. 6d. (or 4s.) is made on account of any girl or woman who has attended for not less than 25 (or (c.) Dairy Work Grant 40) hours during the school year at a Dairy Class of not more than 14 scholars.

The time for Dairy Work must be entered in the Time-Table, and should be not less than two continuous hours at any meeting. Provided that for the purposes of Article 13 (b) (3) Dairy Work shall be considered as a subject.

Drawing
Grant.

15*. Where the Inspector reports that Drawing is satisfactorily taught, a grant of 1s. 9d. is made on account of each scholar who has received at least 20 hours' instruction in Drawing. In order that Drawing may be satisfactorily taught, provision should be made in the Time-Table for at least one hour's instruction in each week. Provided that for the purposes of Article 13 (b) (3) Drawing shall be considered as a subject.

No scholar may be registered in an Evening Continuation School for Drawing who is receiving instruction in a School of Art or Art Class, or in respect of whose attendance or success at an examination a grant has been paid by the Board of Education to a School of Art or Art Class.

See Appendix 3.

Average Attendance.

16. For the purposes of Section 19 of the Elementary Education Act, 1876, the average attendance shall be found by dividing the total number of hours of instruction received in subjects sanctioned under Articles 2 and 3 by registered scholars during the school year by the total number of hours during which the school has been open for such instruction during the same period.

Limitation to amount of Grant.

17. The total annual Grant (Article 13) may not exceed the greater of the two sums named below, viz. :—

(a.) A sum equal to 17s. 6d. for each unit of average attendance.

A fraction of a unit if it reaches .5 may be counted as an additional unit.

(b.) The total income (Appendix 1, Article 90) of the school from all sources whatever other than the annual grant.

See Elementary Education Act, 1876, sec. 19.

Alteration of Code.

18. The Board, as occasion requires, may cancel or modify Articles of the Code, or may establish new Articles, but may not take any action thereon until the same shall have lain on the Table of both Houses for at least one calendar month.

Code to be printed and laid before Parliament.

19. The Code shall be printed each year, in such a form as to show separately all Articles cancelled, modified or established, since the last edition, and shall be laid on the Table of both Houses before the 1st May.

Provision as to Schedule.

20. The Schedule annexed to the Code has the same effect as the Articles of the Code, and is subject to the provisions of Articles 18 and 19.

Given under the Seal of Office of the Board of Education this tenth day of May in the year One thousand nine hundred.

SCHEDULE.

Explanatory Note.

This Schedule contains two sets of Schemes : (A) Schemes adapted to the needs of all schools, from which portions may be selected suitable to the capacity and attainments of the scholars, and to longer or shorter sessions ; (B) Schemes proposed as specimens, indicating the way in which some of the subjects mentioned in (A) may be lengthened into a more detailed syllabus. Managers are not restricted to the subjects named in this Schedule nor to the use of the Schemes set out in it. They may propose a Scheme of their own in any one of these subjects or in any other subject sanctioned by the Board. Such Schemes, together with a time-table of work, must be submitted to and approved by the Inspector at the beginning of a session.

SET A. (CONCISE SCHEMES.)

I.—ELEMENTARY SUBJECTS.

No Scheme can be approved in any elementary subject which is below the standard of the Scheme given for such subject in this Schedule.

1. Reading or Recitation (or both combined) from a school magazine, or a newspaper, or from some standard author.

2. Writing and Composition.—Letter writing or commercial correspondence or theme writing (with or without use of typewriter).

3. Reading and Writing (according to the above Schemes) Combined.

4. Arithmetic.—Compound rules (money) and reduction of common weights and measures ; vulgar fractions ; decimal fractions ; household accounts, bills of parcels, practice : proportion, its application to interest ; averages and percentages.

N.B.—No Scheme may be limited, for a whole session, to compound rules (money) and reduction of common weights and measures only, without the special approval of the Inspector.

II.—ENGLISH SUBJECTS.

1. English Language.—Parsing and analysis of sentences ; paraphrasing of simple poetical extracts ; history of the English language.

2. Geography.—General geography of the British Isles, their chief industries and means of communication by land and water.

General geography of Canada and the United States, or of Europe or Australasia or British India, with special reference in each case to their industries and to their commercial relations with Great Britain.

Colonisation and the conditions of successful industry in the British possessions generally.

3. History.—(a.) Particular periods or subjects, e.g. :—

The reign of Queen Victoria. History of the British colonies. The Stuart period, with especial reference to the constitution and functions of Parliament. The expansion of England in the 18th Century.

(b.) Biographies of leading persons and the chief events in a selected portion of history, e.g., 800 to 1215 A.D. or 1688 to 1760 A.D.

In Welsh schools special attention may be given to the Geography, History, and Industries of Wales.

4 English Literature. (See Set B.)

5. The Life and Duties of the Citizen. (See Set B.)

III. LANGUAGES.

1. French or German.—Grammatical rules; easy conversational phrases and sentences; translation of an easy reading book; a letter or theme in French or German. [Fair correctness of pronunciation to be required.]

2. Welsh.—Grammatical rules; translation from Welsh into English and from English into Welsh of easy conversational sentences; recitation of Welsh poetry; a letter or theme in Welsh.

3. Latin.—Grammatical rules; simple exercises in translation from English into Latin; parsing; translation of a Latin standard author.

IV.—MATHEMATICS.

1. Euclid.—Books I., II., III. (or parts of those books), with simple deductions.

2. Algebra.—Some part of the subject so far as quadratic equations and easy problems leading to them.

3. Mensuration.—Triangles and parallelograms; the circle; sphere, right cone and cylinder; use of the chain and field-book in land surveying; duodecimals; measuring brick-work and timber.

V.—SCIENCE SUBJECTS.

Any Scheme submitted for approval in a Science Subject which differs from that given for such Subject in this Schedule must be more elementary than the elementary stage of the Subject as shown in the Science and Art Directory.

1. Elementary Physiography. (See Set B.)

2. Elementary Physics and Chemistry. (See Set B.)

3. Domestic Science. (See Set B.)

4. Science of Common Things.—Brief survey of physical properties of bodies serving to determine their uses and relative value.

Mechanical facts and principles most serviceable in daily life.

Hydrostatic and Aërostatic laws most commonly applied.

Familiar notions of sound, light, heat, electricity and magnetism.

Brief survey of the most essential facts and principles of inorganic and organic chemistry.

Leading features of physiology.

Outlines of the animal and vegetable kingdoms, establishing a classified acquaintance with the resources they supply.

The Home, including design and construction on hygienic and economic principles. Materials. Fixtures and furniture. Heating and lighting.

Clothing.—Food and beverages.—Cleanliness and disinfection.

Safety from accidents and injuries. First aid to the injured and simple remedies. Means of relief and comfort for the infirm. Precautions against endemic and epidemic diseases.

Discipline of body and mind. Popular influences of music and of the graphic arts. Employments for leisure times.—Household management and thrift. Provident organisations on sound principles of social economy.

5. Chemistry.—Solution. Solvent properties of water. Impurities in water. Hard and soft water. Mineral and sea water. Saturation.

Air: its constituents and weight. Properties of oxygen as regards animal life and change in matter effected by it. Nitrogen as regards animal life. Impurities in air. Aqueous vapour.

Water: its three states. Expansion by heat. Convection currents. Boiling point. Steam. Composed of oxygen and hydrogen in definite proportions. Properties of hydrogen.

Carbon: various states. Combination with oxygen. Evolution of heat, how measured. Carbon dioxide; its solution; aerated waters; tests for presence of carbon dioxide. Coal. Oil. Tallow. Gas. Products of combustion.

Sulphur: properties. Sulphurous acid. Sulphuric acid.

Chlorine: how obtained. Its properties and combination with sodium. Its solubility.

Acids and Alkali, Metals: tests and properties. Hydrochloric acid. Ammonia. Lime and clay.

Lead. Iron. Copper. Mercury. Sodium.

General notions of the composition of organic carbon compounds. Acetic acid and vinegar. Tartaric acid in fruits. Fats. Oils. Glycerine. Soap. Sugar. Starch. Gluten. Alcohol.

6. Mechanics.—Matter in three states: solids, liquids, gases. The mechanical properties peculiar to each state. Matter is porous, compressible, elastic. Measures of length, time, velocity, and space. Matter in motion. Weight of a body; its inertia and momentum. Measures of force and work. The simple mechanical powers. Liquid pressure; the hydrostatic press; liquids under the action of gravity. Parallelogram of forces. Parallelogram of velocities.

7. Sound, Light, and Heat.—Elementary notions of vibration and waves.

Propagation and velocity of sound. Reflection and refraction of sound. Echoes. Whispering galleries. Speaking trumpet. Musical notes. Pitch and loudness of notes.

Propagation of light. Shadows, intensity of light and simple photometers. Reflection. Mirrors and images by plane mirrors. Refraction, images by pin-holes, by lenses, by concave and convex mirrors. Refracting and reflecting telescopes. The microscope. Camera obscura and camera lucida. The optical lantern. Decomposition of light. Colour of objects, mixture of colours by rotation.

Distinction between heat and temperature. Thermometers and thermometric scales. Expansion of solids, liquids, and gases. The three modes in which heat may be conveyed from place to place. Capacity for heat, and the influence of the capacity for heat possessed by water on climate. Heating by hot water. Change of state caused by heat. Latent heat. Influence of pressure on the boiling point. Determination of heights by boiling point.

8. Magnetism and Electricity.—Attraction of iron by a magnet. Poles of a magnet. Direction of a magnet moving freely in horizontal plane. Mariner's compass. Mutual behaviour of like and unlike poles. Magnetization of soft iron and steel. The dipping needle. The earth as a magnet.

Electrification. The galvanoscope. Conductors and insulators. Production of two kinds of electrification. Induction. The Leyden jar and fulminating panes. The frictional electrical machine. An electric current. The Grove, Daniell, and Leclanché cells and batteries.

Decomposition of water. Coiled conductors behaving as magnets when an electric current passes through them.

Electrolysis of solutions of metallic salts.

Deflection of a magnetic needle by a current passing in a wire. The principles of telegraphy. The electro-magnet. Construction of an electric bell.

9. Human Physiology.—General build of the human body.

Names and positions of the internal organs.

Nature and chemical composition of air, water, carbonic acid, and ammonia.

Blood; for a, size, and structure of its corpuscles.

Organs of circulation, respiration, and digestion; their structure and functions.

Excretory organs. The skin. Heat of the body; how derived, distributed, and regulated.

Structure and functions of the organs of smell, taste, and sight.

General arrangement of the nervous system.

Chief parts of the brain. Structure of the spinal cord. Evidence that the spinal cord is capable of effecting reflex actions.

10. Hygiene.—Food. Classification of food. Animal and vegetable foods. Roasting and boiling; advantages and disadvantages of each. Simple cooking apparatus.

Water and Beverages.—Drinking water; contamination of water and its effects; precautions to be taken with cisterns and wells. Tea, coffee, and cocoa preparation, and effects. Alcoholic fermentation.

Air.—Composition of air; deleterious impurities in air.

Warming and Clothing.—Materials of clothing—wool, cotton, linen.

Personal Habits.—Effects of exercise, rest, and sleep on health. Cleanliness. Attention to the action of the skin and digestive organs.

Treatment of Slight Wounds and Accidents.—Treatment of cuts, burns, scalds, bleeding, fits, faints, and bites.

ALTERNATIVE SCHEME (the Scheme of the St. John's Ambulance Association).

Introductory.—Explanatory. Historical progress. Heredity.

The Functions of the Human Body.—The organs and systems; work of the systems. Waste and repair. Nutrition—gaseous, liquid, and solid.

Personal Habits.—Work exercise. Recreation. Rest Sleep. Cleanliness. Bathing. Meals. Digestion.

Surroundings.—Light, warmth, moisture, air, water; soil, plants, animals, man, parasites and their effects upon the human body.

Air.—Composition of air under various conditions. Deleterious impurities and their sources. Change of air. Ventilation.

Water.—Uses. Kinds. Sources. Contamination. Wells. Cisterns. Filters.

Food.—Mineral, vegetable, and animal food. Diet. Liquid and solid foods and beverages. Cooking and preparation. Unfit and adulterated foods.

Clothing.—Age, sex, season, place, garments, and materials. Substitutions and falsifications.

Dwelling.—Dryness, warming, and artificial lighting. Sanitary arrangements. Cleansing.

Prevention of ill health and of the spread of infectious diseases. (Duties of the citizen.)

11. Botany.—General structure of the root, stem, leaves, and parts of the flower.

Description, in technical language, of the parts of a fresh plant.

Characters of the natural orders to which such plants as the following belong:—Buttercup, wallflower, apple, carrot, dandelion, primrose, and hyacinth.

Structure of the vegetable cell.

Nature and properties of the cell-contents, e.g., protoplasm, starch grains, and chlorophyll.

Structure and uses of the anther, pollen, ovary, ovule, and seed.

Processes of assimilation and respiration. Properties and chemical composition of air, water, carbonic acid, and ammonia. Sources of the food materials of the plant.

Distinctive characters of the classes of Dicotyledons and Monocotyledons, and of their principal divisions.

Comparison of a fern and a moss with a flowering plant.

12. Agriculture.—Soils and their plant food, and the crops produced therefrom.

Milk: its character and uses, its preservation, and the various products obtained from it.

Plant life; manures and tillages. Proper use of plant food.

Practical instruction in the treatment of milk (on the basis of Cookery instruction) with explanation of processes and results.

Variations in crops, seeds, live stock.

Elementary instruction in dairy management, poultry management, and the management of bees.

(See also Set B.)

13. Horticulture.—Seeds and their requirements. Nature and composition of soils. Nature and functions of roots. Stems and branches. Leaves. Bulbs and tubers. Flowers and fruit.

Operations connected with the land. Preparation of seed bed. Potting and planting.

Propagation. Cuttings. Budding. Grafting. Layering.

Branch and root pruning.

Fruit culture. Flower culture. Vegetable culture. Fungus and insect pests.

14. Navigation.—Terms used in mathematical geography. Description of charts. Differences of latitude and longitude. The compass. Conversion of magnetic bearings into true bearings and the converse. Logarithms of numbers. Variation, deviation, and leeway. Log-line and glass. Mercator's chart. Middle latitude, meridional. Position by cross bearings. Traverse sailing. Day's work, by D.R. Latitude by meridian altitude of sun. Error of compass by altitude of sun. The sextant. Longitude by chronometer and altitude of sun. Error of compass by azimuth and altitude of sun.

VI.—COMMERCIAL SUBJECTS.

1. Commercial Arithmetic. (See Set B.)

2. Book-keeping.—Commercial terms. Use of cash book, purchases book, sales book. Double entry. Bills of exchange. Bills receivable book. Bills payable book. The journal; its relation to other books. Ledger accounts. Bad debts. Consignments. Discounts. (See Set B.)

3. Commercial Geography. (See Set B.)

4. Commercial History. (See Set B.)

5. Commercial Correspondence and Office Routine. (See Set B.)

VII.—MISCELLANEOUS SUBJECTS.

1. Vocal Music.—

a.—Staff Notation.—Notes, their shape and value. The treble and bass clefs. Scales and key signatures. Intervals, bars, and time signatures.

b.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation.—The major scale and common changes of key. Pulses, measures, and rhythmic phrases. The minor scale and common chromatics.

The training of the ear and of the voice. The tasteful performance of music.

(See also Set B.)

2. Ambulance.

(a). A general outline of the structure and functions of the human body and its various organs; description of the bones, joints, and muscles, with special reference to those parts which can be recognised externally.

The function of respiration; structure of the lungs; artificial respiration—its application in cases of drowning or suffocation; the structure of the heart; the circulation; the position and the direction of the blood vessels; points where the main blood vessels can be compressed.

The difference between arterial, venous, and capillary bleeding; the first aid treatment of bleeding by means of pressure and improvised methods.

General rules as to the immediate treatment of cuts and wounds; importance of cleanliness. Removal of foreign bodies from the eye.

First aid treatment of faints, burns, and scalds; what to do when dress catches fire; how to remove clothing from injured parts. General precautions to be observed in cases of insensibility and sudden illness.

Triangular bandage—description; its application to various parts of the body.

For Boys and Men Only—

The improvised method of lifting and carrying the sick or injured.
Methods of lifting and carrying the sick or injured.
Their conveyance by rail or country carts.

(b). ALTERNATIVE SCHEME.—(The scheme of the St. John Ambulance Association. Instruction under this scheme must be given by a duly qualified medical practitioner to the sexes separately.)

A general outline of the structure and functions of the human body, including a brief description of the bones, muscles, arteries, and veins.
The functions of circulation, respiration, and the nervous system.

A general direction of the main arteries, indicating the points where the circulation may be arrested by digital pressure, or by the application of the tourniquet. The difference between arterial, venous, and capillary bleeding, and the various extemporaneous means of arresting it.
The triangular bandage, and its application.

The signs of fracture, and first aid to be rendered in such accidents.
The application of splints or other restraining apparatus. Treatment of sprains.

First aid to those suffering from collapse and injury, to those stunned, to the apoplectic, inebriated, epileptic, fainting, and to those bitten by rabid animals. The immediate treatment of the apparently drowned or otherwise suffocated. Burns, scalds, and poisons. What to do when dress catches fire.

For Boys and Men Only—

The improvised method of lifting and carrying the sick or injured.
Methods of lifting and carrying the sick or injured on stretchers.
Their conveyance by rail or in country carts.

For Girls and Women Only—

Preparation for reception of accident cases.
Lifting and carrying patients. Preparation of bed. Removing patients' clothing. Preparation for doctor's visit.

3 Home Nursing.

(a.) Necessity for knowledge of laws of health, and their practical application. The Nurse,—her duties and responsibilities. Necessity for method and cleanliness. Note-taking; use of charts. The sick room, preparation; furniture; ventilation and warming. The bed and bedding; bed making; draw sheet; changing sheets. Air and water beds. The patient,—clothing and changing; washing; lifting helpless patients; bed rest; bed pan; bed sores; preparation for the night.

Sick feeding: Rules to be observed; preparation of food; sick dietary and cooking; regulation of visits. Administration of medicine. The roller bandage, and its application to various parts of the body. Use of the ordinary and clinical thermometers. Baths,—their use and temperature. How to prepare for the doctor's visit. Poultices; fomentations; liniments; ointment. General rules as to nursing infectious cases. Weights and measures used. Personal and family hygiene; management of convalescents.

(b) ALTERNATIVE SCHEME.—(The scheme of the St. John Ambulance Association. Instruction under this scheme must be given by a duly qualified medical practitioner to the sexes separately.)

The Sick Room.—Introductory remarks. Selection, preparation, and cleaning of room. Bed and bedding. Furnishing, warming, and ventilation.

Infection and Disinfection.—Infectious and non-infectious cases; quarantine of patient. History of a fever case. Disinfecting and disinfectants.

Details of Nursing.—The Nurse; regulation of visitors; management of nurse's own health; washing and dressing patients; bed making; changing sheets; lifting helpless patients; sick diet; administration of food, medicines, and stimulants.

The roller bandage and its application. Observation of the sick; rigors; sleep; pain; posture; skin; appetite; vomiting; cough; expectoration; effects of remedies, &c.; temperature taking; baths; bed sores; delirium. Nursing sick children. What to prepare for physician's and surgeon's visits.

Application of Local Remedies.—Foultices; fomentations; blisters; ointment; leeches; padding splints; bandaging.

Personal and family hygiene. Management of convalescents.

4 Shorthand.

Writing from dictation. Transcription of shorthand notes (with or without use of typewriter). Clear and correct formation of shorthand characters and outlines.

VIII.—DRAWING (See Appendix 3).

IX.—SUBJECTS FOR GIRLS AND WOMEN ONLY.

1. Domestic Economy.—Foods and beverages. Their properties, nutritious values, and functions. Their preparation. Clothing. The dwelling. Rules of health. Washing.

(See also Set B.)

2. Needlework.—Sewing Course.—To cut out garments requiring only straight or slanting lines, i.e., a working woman's apron; a flannel petticoat; an infant's shirt.

To pleat material into bands suitable for use in aprons, woollen petticoats, &c.

To sew on buttons, make buttonholes, and set on tapes.

To make up a complete garment (cut out by the scholar) showing the practical application of the above-named exercises.

To cut out in different sizes garments requiring curved lines, i.e., chemises, drawers, pinafores, boys' shirts (flannel or Oxford shirting).

To gather material and set it into bands, i.e., neck or collar bands, wristbands, &c.

To run and feather-stitch tucks.

To join material on the straight, on the cross, and on the curve by various kinds of seams.

To set in gussets and make false hems.

To make up a garment (cut out by the scholar) showing the practical application of the above-named exercises.

To cut out in several sizes (from measurements) a plain dress bodice and a night-dress.

To set on hooks and eyes, to case bones, to overcast seams, and to bind skirt edges.

To make up a dress skirt, lined or unlined. To make up a simple dress (skirt and bodice) or a night-dress, cut out by the scholar.

Knitting and Mending Course.—To knit a man's sock.

To darn thin places on flannel and holes in socks and stockings.

To patch in flannel.

To knit a stocking.

To patch in calico.

To darn and repair house linen, i.e., sheets, table-cloths, &c.

To patch and darn dress materials (print and woollen).

SET B. (DETAILED SCHEMES.)

1.—ENGLISH LITERATURE.

OUTLINES OF THE HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

"In literature we have present, and waiting ready to form us, the best which has been thought and said in the world."—M. Arnold.

"Literature consists of all the books—and they are not so many—where moral truth and human passion are touched with a certain largeness, sanity, and attraction of form."—J. Morley.

[This Course, which covers a good deal of ground, should not be taken unless at least two or three hours' instruction can be given in each of the numbered sections; it may be conveniently followed in a second year by the detailed study of one or more of them, together with part of the work of the chief authors considered. Schemes for such instruction should be approved by the Inspector.]

A.

HINTS TO TEACHERS.

It is impossible to teach English literature in a course of lectures; your object must therefore be to awake interest in it. Keep in mind the continuity and development of literature: but dwell mainly on the greatest writers. Do not give lists of minor folk. It is not worth while merely naming any writer if you have not time to do more. Read out good passages, and at the end (but not in the middle), explain why they are good. Encourage the students to read widely for themselves, in unannotated texts and the better anthologies, and, if they like it, to learn lyrics or short passages by heart. On the whole, it is perhaps best not to put a primer into their hands until the course is finished; then one may be used for revision.

Literature does not lend itself much to an appeal to the eye, but the exhibition of portraits, rare editions, and facsimiles of handwriting, serves to stimulate interest. Do not forget local associations. Where such exist the rule of exclusion of minor writers should be modified. Chatterton is not Shakespeare, but if you are teaching at Bristol, you will visit St. Mary's Redcliffe, just as at Stratford you will visit the birth-place and Anne Hathaway's cottage.

The lives of authors should be told only so far as they affected their work. A man's surroundings, such as the landscape of his home, give him local colour. Episodes which bring out character (e.g., Sidney at Zutphen) are valuable. But avoid accidentals: an enumeration of the posts at court held by Chaucer is useless.

Do not be precise about dates; there are no dates of importance in English literature; it is sufficient to remember what great writers were roughly contemporary, and the larger chronological periods, centuries and reigns, in which they fall.

B.

SYLLABUS.

1.—What is literature? It may be approached either for relaxation ("light" literature), or for instruction (philosophy, science, history in certain aspects), or for knowledge of, sympathy with, and pleasure in the spiritual life and history of humanity (poetry in the widest sense). The permanent and transient elements of poetry. Writers are the children of their ages, and their works reflect their infinitely various personalities; but all great writers express, in their own way, the central truths and interests of human nature.

[The above is only suggestion. Every teacher must state the nature and aim of literature as he sees it. It is useless to repeat mere formulae borrowed from text books. In any case do not dwell long upon abstract definitions of literature. Get to the concrete writers. But keep your general conception of the ideals of literature before your own mind, and select your topics and methods of instruction so as insensibly to illustrate it.]

The making of English. The Anglo-Saxons. Their heathen lays. Beowulf. The gleemen. The coming of Christianity. Caedmon. Alfred. The Norman Conquest. English swamped by Norman French. The Celtic fringe and its bards. Romance.

2.—English literature begins again. Its debt to French. The Renaissance. Chaucer. How he sums up the literary tendencies of his age. His romance and realism. Wyclif and English prose.

3.—Literature withers during the wars of the Roses. Importance of printing. Caxton. Malory. The Renaissance again. The humanists. Wyatt and Surrey. Literature withers again during the disputes about religion. Exception in the English Bible and Prayerbook.

4.—Elizabeth. Growth of national life and patriotism. Spenser, Sidney. Their influence. Elizabethan lyric and pastoral.

5.—The origins of drama. Its position in Elizabethan society, the city, the court. Marlowe, the first great dramatist.

6.—Shakespeare: his life and plays. Roughly, the plays fall into four chronological periods: the Histories, e.g., Richard II., Henry IV., Henry V.; the Comedies, e.g., As You Like It, Twelfth-night; the Tragedies, e.g., Hamlet, Macbeth, Leur; the Romances, e.g., Cymbeline, The Tempest. (Only one or two plays should be treated with any detail.)

7.—Elizabethan prose. Its application to the literature of knowledge by Bacon, Hooker, Raleigh.

8.—From Elizabeth to James. The courtly poets, Donne, Herrick, Carew. Growing artificiality of lyric. The religious poets, George Herbert, Vaughan.

9.—Puritanism and poetry. Milton.

10.—The Restoration. Influence of French literature. Common sense and lucidity become the literary ideals. The age of prose begins. Dryden.

11.—Prose, and prosaic poetry. The "classic" ideal. Pope. Swift. Johnson.

12.—The re-action from prose. Feeling for romance, for nature. The first comes to a head in Coleridge, the second in Wordsworth.

13.—Later developments of romanticism. Shelley, Byron. The worship of beauty. Keats.

14.—Nineteenth century prose. History. Macaulay, Froude. Social speculation. Mill, Carlyle, Arnold, Ruskin.

15.—The beginnings of the novel. Its nineteenth century development.

16.—Tennyson sums up the ideals of his age. A new impulse to the study of the individual. Browning.

2.—LIFE AND DUTIES OF THE CITIZEN.

"It is our business carefully to cultivate in our minds, to rear to the most perfect vigour and maturity, every sort of generous and honest feeling that belongs to our nature. To bring the dispositions that are lovely in private life into the service and conduct of the commonwealth: so to be patriots as not to forget we are gentlemen. . . . Public life is a situation of power and energy; he trespasses against his duty who sleeps upon his watch, as well as he that goes over to the enemy."—Burke's Thoughts on the Cause of the Present Discontents.

[This Syllabus touches only on certain limited aspects of the public life of the citizen. Various important considerations are therefore omitted which teachers will no doubt discuss in dealing with the subject.

The subject as here set out will be found difficult to teach, except to those older scholars who are in the habit of reading and thinking intelligently about public affairs. For the instruction of such students the general outline here given may be of service to teachers, though it covers more ground than can be dealt with even in two or three courses. The teacher will select that part which is most appropriate to the circumstances and needs of the school and the locality. For younger scholars a much simpler form of syllabus should be prepared from which the more technical treatment of the machinery of Local and Central Government should be omitted.

The object of the teacher should be to proceed from the known and familiar, such as the policeman, the rate collector, the board of guardians, and the town council, to the history of and reasons for our local and national institutions and our responsibilities in connexion with them.

Good illustrations and diagrams and pictures will be of great service in teaching this subject.]

INTRODUCTORY.

What the citizen should aim at in the interest of his country

Public Duties accompany all forms of work in life, whatever the occupation or profession.

Serving personal interest alone is not enough.

The individual benefits from a well-ordered community. The community ought to benefit in its turn from the efforts of the individual. "All for each" should be requited by "each for all."

The reasons for attachment to our country and for a sense of duty towards our fellow citizens are similar to those for love of home and family. Loyalty to one's own village or town should lead to a larger patriotism. Those who are growing up into citizenship should realise their debt to the men and women who have served the nation generously and wisely in the past, and their own duty to their country in the present. Self interest and class interest should be subordinate to general and national interests.

The Nation and the State.—What they mean. Difference between Representative Government and Despotic Government. Responsibilities involved in representative government.

I.—Representative Government.

What representative institutions mean. The co-operation of the people in the work of government. The power of the majority; its limits. The force of public opinion. Need of public spirit and of intelligence for good government.

The machinery of government is partly local, partly central.

A.—Local Government.

Local Government Districts, Small and Large. Institutions of Local Self Government.

1. The Village and the Parish.

The Parish Meeting and the Parish Council. The Choosing of Parish Councillors and District Councillors, &c.

2. School Districts. School Boards, School Managers, and School Attendance Committees.

3. The Poor Law Union. Boards of Guardians.

4. Districts under District Councils, Boroughs, and Counties, Rural and Urban District Councils, Town Councils, and County Councils. The Choosing of Mayors, Aldermen, and Councillors.

Composition and methods of election of bodies above mentioned.

Work and Powers of these Bodies as regards :

1. Rating and Expenditure.—The rate collector. Purposes for which money is spent. Difference between rating and taxation.

2. Health.—Sanitary condition of houses; drainage, baths and wash-houses; gas; water; purification of rivers. Hospitals; sick nursing. Sanitary and medical officers.

3. Education.—Day and Evening Continuation Schools. Provision of schools and attendance at school. School attendance officers. Free libraries. Picture galleries and museums. Technical education.

4. The Destitute Poor.—The relieving officer. Outdoor and indoor relief. The workhouse.

5. Roads, Streets, Buildings, and Land.—Paving and lighting of streets. Public parks and recreation grounds. Town halls and municipal buildings. What goes on inside them. Purchase of land for improvements and public purposes. Allotments and small holdings.

6. Police and Justice.

The policeman, his powers and duties. The magistrate, how appointed; his powers and duties. Petty sessions and quarter sessions. Public houses and licensing.

The local representative bodies have in most cases certain responsibilities to or dealings with the Central Government (see B iii. Executive Government).

B.—Central Government.

i. The Crown and the two Houses of Parliament.

- (1.) The Crown.—Its constitutional position and powers.
- (2.) House of Lords.
 - (a.) Composition.
 - (b.) Powers.
- (3.) House of Commons.
 - (a.) Composition. How members of Parliament are elected. The franchise and the ballot.
 - (b.) Powers.
- (4.) Working of the Parliamentary System—Taxation, legislation, administration. Party Government. Ministry and Cabinet—their joint responsibility. Ministry and Opposition. Majorities and minorities. Their powers. How a Bill becomes an Act of Parliament.

ii. The Judicial System.

Justice.

The Lord Chancellor. Judges. Magistrates. Coroners. How appointed.

Courts of Law.

Civil and Criminal.

Petty sessions, quarter sessions, county courts, assizes, High Court, Court of Appeal, House of Lords. Privy Council. Juries and their relation to Courts of Law.

iii. Executive Government.

The duty of carrying into effect many of the laws, and the decisions of Parliament from time to time, is entrusted to various public departments, the most important of which are presided over by responsible Ministers of the Crown.

The Work and Powers of the Executive Government.

- (1.) In connexion with the work of representative Local Bodies in matters of Education, Health, and the Destitute Poor. (Board of Education and Local Government Board.)
- (2.) In matters of Trade, Commerce, Agriculture, Post Office, Telegraphs and Savings Banks. (Board of Trade, Board of Agriculture, Post Office.)
- (3.) In matters of Labour (see under III.). (Home Office, Board of Trade.)
- (4.) In matters of Justice. Prisons and Police. (Home Office.)
- (5.) In connexion with Scotland and Ireland. (Scotch Office and Irish Office.)
- (6.) In connexion with the Colonies, India, and Foreign Countries (see II. The Empire). (Colonial Office, India Office, Foreign Office.)

- (7.) In connexion with the Army and Navy. (War Office, Admiralty.)

The Army; the Army reserve, militia, yeomanry, and volunteers. The Navy; naval reserve; coastguards. Duties and responsibilities of the soldiers and sailors of the country by land and sea.

The evils of war. Efforts that have been made to avert it by arbitration.

- (8.) In matters of Taxation and Finance. (The Treasury.)

The country's yearly bill. What we pay for. How the money is got. Direct and indirect taxation.

C. Duties of Citizens in relation to Local and Central Government.

1. Right and duty of Voting.—Different kinds of votes. Need of honesty in giving a vote. The vote a "trust" as well as a "right." Each vote has a special end and aim, which ought to be considered. The gain and loss of party spirit.
2. Rates and Taxes, and what we get in return for them. Reasons for willingness to contribute to common purposes in well administered countries. Illustrations of gain to the community from improved conditions of life and health as a result of rates and taxes well spent.
3. Public Health.—Attention to sanitary matters at home, cleanliness, and ventilation. Isolation and disinfection in illness; temperance and temperate habits; duty to neighbours as well as home and family. Healthiness of a district; its value to the community. Public parks, gardens, and open spaces. Duty of making them beautiful and taking good care of them.
4. Education.—Duty of parents. To enforce regularity of attendance, to co-operate with the teacher in regard to conduct of scholars, to home lessons, and the care and use of books.
Duty of scholars. To make full use of the advantages of the school, and thus fit themselves to become capable and useful citizens.
Influence of school on character as well as on intelligence. Waste of force and money through leaving school too early. Technical education, its value for the worker, Higher education and the Universities. School and college only the beginning of the citizen's education.
5. Provision for the Poor.—Care of poor children and the sick and aged poor. Consideration of the causes of Pauperism, and how to diminish it. Importance of self-dependence and habits of providence.
6. Need of Order and Respect for Law.—The citizen's home and protection. Respect for the persons, opinions, property, and reputation of others. Discouragement of fraud in all relations of life and business. Support of the law and encouragement by example of peaceable behaviour by all citizens. Examples of what the law demands: (a.) Registration of births, deaths, and marriages. (b.) Notification of infectious diseases. (c.) Prevention of cruelty to children and to animals.

7. Public Spirit and Public Opinion.—Force of public opinion, need of honesty and intelligence. Freedom of speech and writing. Uses of public meetings; how they should be conducted. Watchfulness over public bodies. Services of the public press in these matters. Active co-operation of the whole body of the people essential to good government and freedom. Willingness of capable persons to serve in a representative capacity on public bodies of great importance.

II.—The Empire.

Great Britain and Ireland. "Greater Britain."—The Colonies. Variety of Races in Colonies and dependencies. Self-governing Colonies. Crown Colonies. Protectorates. India and its Government.

Imperial coinage and Imperial postage.

Appointment of Governors General, and Governors.

Obligation to cultivate knowledge about our brethren "across the sea." Native Races within the Empire, and our duties to them.

Extension of friendly feeling, and of courtesy and fair dealing towards foreign nations. Appointment of Ambassadors, Envoys, and Consuls.

III.—Industrial and Social Life and Duties.

Selection for boys or girls of work in life. Loss to the nation when they are set to uncongenial labour. Corresponding gain of "tools to the man who can use them."

What constitutes national wealth. Every capable and industrious and self-respecting citizen should add to the wealth of the community. Relation of skill and knowledge (a) to personal well-being and happiness; (b) to industrial success; (c) to power of public usefulness.

The great industries of the country, their growth and development.

Changes caused by the use of machinery.

Associations of Workers :—

1. Trade unions, their history and work. Labour disputes and strikes. Arbitration and conciliation.
2. Working men's co-operative societies; their work in distribution and production.
3. Friendly societies. Training in habits of industry; thrift and self-help.

Value of the work of voluntary associations in the education of the adult citizen.

The State and Labour.—Factory Acts; Mines Acts; Women's and Children's labour. Dangerous employments. Health and safety of the worker.

Information as to condition of workers. Labour Department of Board of Trade.

The Government and Municipalities as employers of labour. Dockyards, Arsenals, and public works.

The services rendered by retail shopkeepers, merchants, manufacturers, and other persons engaged in distribution and production.

The importance to the nation of effective, honest, and intelligent management of all forms of business and industry.

The disasters which result from mismanagement or fraud.

The duty of the community to sympathise with every reasonable effort of the workers to improve their condition, and develop their intelligence. That which injures their efficiency or lessens their hopefulness leads to national loss, and to the maintenance or increase of poverty and ignorance. A healthy and skilful body of workers, upright in character and self-reliant, is a source of strength to the country.

Faithful discharge of homelier duties of life is the best preparation for their discharge in city and nation. Civic duty begins in the life of the family; expands with occupation in trade, business, and profession.

In earning their livelihood men and women also serve their fellow citizens and their country. Membership of self-governing societies is among the best means of civic education.

As intelligence, honour, and virtue are essential to the welfare of the family, so is patriotism necessary to national and social life. We have to recognise that our public responsibilities are duties as much as personal and family obligations. We have no right to expect just legislation or impartial administration unless we perform with intelligence those public duties which devolve upon all. If we suffer injustice in connexion with public affairs, we have little right to complain unless we have done our own duty.

3. ELEMENTARY PHYSIOGRAPHY.

Measurement of Length, Surface, and Volume or Bulk.—Drawing to scale.

Plans and Sections—of room, playground, furniture. Maps of parish and county, as plans. Sections of ten miles with hill, river, town, to scale. Map of British Islands. East and west section of England, Wales, and Ireland to Mid-Atlantic, to scale. A great circle section of the earth ($39\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter $= \frac{1}{2500}$ th inch to a mile), with heights of mountains and depths of seas to scale.

Why the surface of the earth seems flat. Segment of a circle of great radius compared with a straight line. Proof that the earth is globular. Dimensions of the earth. Axis, poles, equator, longitude, latitude. Difficulty of representing true surface by maps.

Day and Night.—Rising, setting, and apparent course of sun, moon, and stars. The meridian. The pole star. Measurement of time; the sundial. Noon; noon to noon = one day (roughly). Divisions of the day—hour, minute, second. The hour-glass. The clock.

Determination of north, south, east, and west. The compass.

The Equinox; when the sun rises due east and sets due west, and is above the horizon for half the day. The Summer Solstice; when the sun rises and sets furthest north of east and west, and describes the largest arc in the heavens, and daylight is longest. The Winter Solstice; when the sun rises and sets furthest south, describes the smallest arc, and daylight is shortest. Twilight.

The Sun—its importance. Size and distance of the Sun. Sun, earth, and distance between them, to scale.

Cause of alternation of day and night, in the spinning of the earth on its axis. Time of one revolution = a day.

The Moon.—Apparent movement in the heavens. Phases. The month as a measure of time. Size and distance of the moon; its movement round the earth; its orbit.

The Year and the Seasons.—Movement of the earth in its orbit round the sun. Effect of the constant inclination of the axis of the earth to the plane of the orbit.

The shadow of the earth, its form in space, and how it produces eclipses of the moon. The shadow of the moon and eclipses of the sun.

General sketch of planetary and cometary bodies. Shooting stars. The fixed stars, distance to scale (earth's orbit as unity).

The commoner Materials of the Earth.—Limestone, chalk, marl, sandstone, shale, slate, granite, whinstone, flint, gravel, clay. Natural soils.

Pure air as a gaseous body. The weight of air; the siphon; the pump; the balloon. The barometer; the aneroid. Normal components of air. Carbon dioxide and watery vapour in air. Winds.

The various forms of water, solid, liquid, and gaseous. The composition of water. Ice, vapour, steam. The circulation of water, clouds, rain, rivers. The way of measuring rain.

Water and air as carriers and transporters, from shingle and mud to volcanic dust and microbes. Influence of things carried by air and water on putrefaction and disease.

Heat and cold as feelings ; heat as a something outside us. Measurement of heat and cold. The thermometer. Changes produced in air, metals, water by heat. Singularity of cooled water in expanding as it passes into ice ; important results. The sun's heat. The burning glass. The sun's heat on the earth's surface, as modified by (1) elevation and depression (the Alps, the Dead Sea), (2) the presence of water in its various shapes, (3) currents of air and water.

Climate ; the simplicity of its conditions in some localities and their extreme complexity in others. Weather. Good and bad seasons.

4. ELEMENTARY PHYSICS AND CHEMISTRY.

An Elementary Course in Practical Science.

(The second title is given to this Scheme to indicate that it is not a mere outline of a set of lectures, but is rather a systematic course of practical instruction for the scholars themselves. The complete set of experiments should be carried out by the class (i.e., the scholars) as a whole. The whole course may reasonably extend over two or even three years.)

PART I.

Measurement.—The importance of a Standard for reference.

The English and French Standards of length, and their subdivisions. The conveniences of the decimal system. Experiments in measurement and the conversion of the one into the other by means of the measure.

Areas and Volumes.—A square inch, foot, &c., also a square centimètre, mètre, &c. Experiments in ascertaining the number of square inches, centimètres, &c., in a given area by subdivision.

General conclusions. Application of these conclusions to ascertain areas by calculation. The same method applied to measurements of volume.

English and French Weights. The standards. The pound and the gramme. Their subdivisions. The Scales or Balance. The proper method of weighing. The weights of cubes of different materials but of the same volume. The weight in grammes of a certain volume (in cubic centimètres) of water. The weight of one cubic centimètre of water.

Graphic representation of weights of cubes by lines. The parts of a balance. A simple lever, the laws discovered by experiment. The application of these discoveries to the balance.

The Relative Weights (compared with water) of such common liquids as milk, oil, beer, tea, coffee, sea-water, methylated spirits, &c., and milk mixed with known volumes of water by means of the relative weight bottle. The U tube. Relative weights by its means. Graphic representations of the relative weights of liquids.

The Barometer, a U tube. Readings to be taken daily by the one constructed. Graphic representations by straight lines and also on square paper. The barometer curve. Observation of the weather and wind to be also noted. Any conclusions to be drawn therefrom.

The relative Weights of Solids. (i.) Small solids as slate pencils, glass, nails, chains, by weighing and then introducing into relative density bottle full of water; the weight of water displaced ascertained. The volume of the substances can also be obtained, as 1 gramme of water is about 1 cubic centimètre.

Hence relative weight

$$\frac{\text{weight of substance}}{\text{weight of water displaced}} = \frac{\text{weight of substance}}{\text{weight of equal vol. of water.}}$$

(ii.) The above substances are also weighed in water and found to lose in weight exactly the same amount as the weight of the water displaced in the bottle in (i.), i.e., the loss of weight is equal to the weight of an equal volume of water. Further experiments are made to prove this. General application of this principle.

The relative densities of a sovereign, a shilling, penny, iron, tin, &c. Graphic representations of the above.

The volume of any solids by the above method, as 1 gramme of water equals about 1 cubic centimetre.

Thermometers, Centigrade and Fahrenheit, placed in hot and cold water, the rise and fall of the mercury column. The stationary points. Boiling point of water. Temperature of ice and water, of ice and salt. Freezing of water. Investigation into the action of heat on liquids. Expansion of water by heat, contraction until temperature of 4°C . reached. The great importance of this. Readings to be taken daily and represented graphically as with a barometer.

Evaporation. Water when boiled is noticed to gradually decrease.

Does it all disappear? Experiments in evaporation.

They are found to contain different amounts of solid matter.

Known weights of salt, &c., are added to rain-water which is evaporated as before, and the salt found to remain behind. Hence a method for ascertaining the amount of solid in water. Where does the water go?

Distillation. The steam is found to condense on a cold surface.

The Condenser. The liquid distilled is collected and evaporated, but no residue is left. Pure water, and experiments with filters. Does water evaporate at ordinary temperatures?

Evaporation at Ordinary Temperatures. A dish containing water is weighed daily.

Solubility of Substances in Water. Salt, soda, chalk, &c., are shaken up with water till no more will dissolve. The amount dissolved is then ascertained by evaporation. The amount of solid per 100 cubic centimetres calculated.

The Measurement of Heat. Need of taking into account both the quantity and the temperature of the substance heated. Selection of unit and standard substance. The heat unit the amount of heat required to raise one gramme of water 1°C . Known weights of hot and cold water at known temperatures are mixed in a metallic vessel and the temperature of mixture observed. Calculation of heat lost by hot, and gained by cold, water. The difference is that absorbed by vessel. Calculation of heat units required to raise the vessel through 1°C .

Heat Capacity. Substances other than water found not to require so many heat units to raise one gramme through 1°C . Experiments to find heat capacity of mercury, lead, shot, sand, &c., by mixing the hot material with cold water in the vessel of known heat capacity.

PART II.

(As the following course depends to a very large extent on the knowledge acquired and the methods used in Part I., it should only be taken when Part I. has been completed.)

Air and its Constituents.

The effect of heat on various substances. Fat, sugar, starch, and other substances are found to burn almost wholly away when strongly heated, whilst on the other hand coal, iron, copper, apparently leave a large amount of residue or ash. In the case of iron and copper the ashes will be found to weigh more than the original metal. They have, therefore, gained something. But from where? Could it be from the air?

Investigation into the Increase of Weight of certain substances when Burnt.—Iron and copper are separately heated in closed glass tubes, and are found to undergo no apparent change in weight or otherwise. Air is next passed over the heated metals, and they are observed to change in appearance, and also to increase in weight. The increase in weight must, therefore, be due to the absorption of a certain amount of air. Iron is known to undergo a remarkable change in rusting; may not this throw some light on the subject?

The change Iron undergoes in Rusting.—As dampness apparently quickens the rusting action, some iron filings (weighed quantities) are moistened with water and put on one side to rust. When a good deal of rust has been formed, the whole is dried by heat and weighed. The iron rust is heavier than the original filings. Has this increase come from the water or the air?—This is decided by rusting the filings in a glass jar over water. A certain portion of the air is absorbed. Further experiments made with larger amounts of iron filings to absorb more of the air, lead to the curious conclusion that never more than one-fifth of the air by volume is absorbed, and also that iron filings will not rust in the residual air. This residual air is also tested with a lighted taper, which is extinguished. This points to the presence of two kinds of gases in air—one in which iron filings will rust, and the other in which this does not take place. Similar experiments are made with burning substances to see whether they lead to the same conclusion.

The Act on of Burning Substances on Air confined over Water.—Such substances as phosphorus, sulphur, a candle, are found to point to a similar conclusion, namely, that air is not homogeneous, but consists of—

- (1) Vol. $\frac{1}{5}$ th or that part which appears necessary in all these changes, and hence called the Active Part.
- (2) Vol. $\frac{4}{5}$ ths in which none of these changes take place, and therefore may be called the Inactive Part.

The characters of the various products are noted.

Phosphorus giving a white snow-like powder.

Sulphur giving a pungent gas.

Candle giving an odourless invisible gas.

The Action of the Inactive Part of Air on Heated Iron and Copper.—To be quite sure that the active part is necessary in the burning of iron and copper, the residual air obtained from burning phosphorus or rusting iron is passed over bright copper and iron wires, with the result that no change in appearance or weight is observed. It may therefore be concluded with certainty that

$$5 \text{ vols. of air} = \begin{cases} 1 \text{ vol. of Active Part and} \\ 4 \text{ vols. of Inactive Part.} \end{cases}$$

Search after the Active Part, and attempt to Isolate it.—

The various compounds of the metals with this active constituent are studied, and attempts are made to get it back from them by heat. The iron and copper compounds give no results, but on studying the compounds of lead we notice that apparently this metal forms two compounds, one of a yellow and the other of a red colour.

The former is called litharge, and is obtained by burning lead in air, the resulting litharge being heavier than the original lead. It is further to be noted that when litharge is carefully heated in air at a temperature of molten lead, it again increases in weight, and is changed into the red modification which is called red lead. This red lead, when strongly heated, is converted with loss of weight into litharge. The loss of weight is due to a gas which is evolved and has the following peculiar properties:—

- (1.) Rekindles a spark.
- (2.) Has no colour or odour, and is neutral to litmus.

Everything points to this being the active constituent, is it so? There is a very simple method of settling this question, namely, by adding 1 vol. of it to 4 vols. of the inactive constituent. The result is air, proving conclusively that it was the active constituent. Hence at a high temperature—red lead = litharge + the “active constituent.”

The Study of the Products obtained by burning Substances in the Active Constituent; comparison with those obtained by Burning in Air.

Phosphorus forms white snow-like powder dissolving in water with a hissing noise, and rendering it acid to litmus.

Sulphur forms a gas with a suffocating odour soluble in water, which is also acid.

Carbon forms an invisible odourless gas, which puts out a taper and precipitates lime water, and is shown to be contained in chalk. Its solution in water is also slightly acid.

From the above facts Lavoisier was led to give the active constituent the name of Oxygen (acid producer). The inactive constituent was, on the other hand, originally known as Azote (no life), but is now known as Nitrogen.

Various other substances, such as certain metals, &c., are found to burn energetically in oxygen.

The oxides of sulphur and carbon may be called sulphurous acid gas and carbonic acid gas, as they form acids when added to water.

Water and its Composition.

The action of heat on metals leads up to the action of the various acids on them.

The action of Oil of Vitriol (diluted) and Spirits of Salts on Zinc and Iron.

A gas is observed to be evolved, it is therefore collected over water. The first portions are found to explode when a lighted taper is brought near, but the latter portions which are collected are found to burn quietly. This leads to the conclusion that it is explosive when mixed with air.

Properties of the gas :

- (1) No action on litmus.
 - (2) No colour or smell, and is lighter than air.
 - (3) Burns, but a lighted taper is extinguished by it.
- Called for obvious reasons "Inflammable air."

The Burning of Inflammable Air.

Certain substances when burnt in air unite with the oxygen to form oxides. Does a similar change take place in the case of this gas? Similar experiments are therefore performed on burning inflammable air in a bell-jar full of air over water; the flame is extinguished when one-fifth of the air has been absorbed, and at the same time a slight condensation of moisture is observed on the sides of the glass. May not this be the product of the burning or combustion?

The Product of the Combustion of Inflammable Air in Air.

The combustion is made to take place in proximity to a cooled surface, and a liquid is found to condense resembling water.

Comparative study of the above liquid and water :

- (1.) Evaporation, no residue.
- (2.) Boiling points 100° C., and freezing points 0° C.
- (3.) Neutral to litmus.

The above liquid is therefore water, and inflammable air when burnt produces water. The name of Hydrogen (water producer) is given for this reason. Hence water is apparently an oxide of hydrogen.

Further investigation. The Action of Hydrogen on Heated Red lead, or Oxide of Copper.—Experiments are made which show that hydrogen has the power in the two above cases of depriving the metal of its oxygen and forming water. The composition of water can be ascertained from this, thus :—

The loss of weight of the metallic oxide = oxygen, and weight of the water formed minus weight of oxygen = hydrogen. } uniting to form water.

Water is found to consist of about 1 part by weight of hydrogen, and 8 parts by weight of oxygen.

The question then arises, will any of these metals deprive water of its oxygen? After various trials it will be found that iron filings will do so.

Steam passed over Heated Iron Filings.—In this case an oxide of iron is formed and hydrogen is liberated.

By weight

Water = $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} 1 \text{ part of hydrogen.} \\ 8 \text{ parts of oxygen.} \end{array} \right.$

Natural Waters.—Comparative study of rain, spring or tap, and sea waters. The amount of solid they contain ascertained by evaporation of equal volumes. The purification of water by distillation.

The use of soap. Hard and soft waters. Temporary and permanent hardness. How the former is removed.

Chalk and Lime. Mortar.

The first investigation. The change which chalk undergoes when converted into lime.

Chalk—Its appearance, &c. The various forms of limestones.

The Lime-kiln.—A substance called lime is obtained when chalk or limestone is burnt in the so-called lime-kilns. This substance differs totally in its properties from the original limestone from which it was prepared. A study of the characters and properties of these two substances is made, so as to be able to distinguish them.

Comparative Study of Certain Properties of Chalk and Lime.

	Chalk.	Lime.
(1) The action of water by simple addition.	Hardly any	Swelling crumbling, and heat.
(2) Water added to weighed quantities and the resulting products heated in air-bath.	Water driven off	Increase in weight.
(3) Solubility in water. (Note preparation of lime-water.)	Very slightly	To a much greater extent.
(4) The action of vinegar and common acids.	Strong effervescence.	Very slight.

General conclusions.

The study of the action of Heat on Chalk, Limestone, and Marble—Attempts are made to convert chalk into lime on a small scale by simply heating.

After experiments it is found that any chalk or limestone—no matter from what locality—always loses about 44 per cent. of its weight when strongly heated.

100 grammes chalk=when burnt 56 grammes lime. The burnt chalk is proved to be lime by comparing its properties with those of lime.

The action of Acids on Chalk and Limestone, &c.—Acids have already been observed to cause effervescence in the case of chalk, but not so in that of lime. What is this effervescence? It is a kind of air, or gas, which is apparently being driven off. On investigation the gas is found to have the following properties:—

- (1.) It is invisible, without colour or smell, and is heavier than air.

(2.) A lighted taper is immediately extinguished by it.

(3.) It is slightly soluble in water, and turns blue litmus red. How much by weight is driven off? This is easily ascertained, and found to be about 44 per cent. The amount by volume is also ascertained. This number is very nearly the same as that obtained by strongly heating chalk, and probably is the same. Chalk is therefore heated, and any evolved gas collected. On comparison the gas which is evolved is found to be the same as above. This gas is carbonic acid.

It is now easy to understand why lime does not effervesce on the addition of acids; it is because the carbonic acid has been already expelled by heat. Conclusion:—

When strongly heated—

$$\begin{array}{rcccl} \text{Chalk} & = & \text{lime} & + & \text{carbonic acid} \\ 100 & = & 56 & + & 44 \end{array}$$

Various limestones and marbles, also shells, egg-shells, whiting, &c., are found to undergo the same change when burnt, i.e., to yield 56 per cent. of lime. For this reason they may all be said to consist of "chalk-stuff."

As chalk can be split up into lime and carbonic acid, it would be of interest to know whether the reverse action takes place, that is, whether lime can be reconverted into chalk by the action of carbonic acid. Lime and lime water are exposed to carbonic acid, and a substance is obtained answering in all its properties to chalk. Hence at ordinary temperatures lime + carbonic acid = chalk.

Lime Water and Carbonic Acid.—While making this experiment with lime water, it will have been observed that the precipitated chalk gradually disappears when an excess of the gas is used. On attempting to evaporate the solution to recover the chalk, the latter is found to be reprecipitated after slightly boiling. On further investigation chalk is found to dissolve in water containing the gas, and to be precipitated from this solution on the expulsion of the free carbonic acid. The furring of kettles, &c. While these various experiments are being carried out, probably some of the lime water left in the cupboard will be found covered with a white scum, which on investigation turns out to be chalk. Hence carbonic acid is in the air. After various searches as to its origin, it is traced to the air exhaled from the lungs and also from a burning gas-jet. Conclusion:—

Air after being breathed	}	contain carbonic acid.
Coal gas after being burnt

Mortar —The setting of mortar, &c.

5. DOMESTIC SCIENCE.—THE SCIENCE UNDERLYING DOMESTIC ECONOMY AND HYGIENE.

It is intended that the instruction in this subject should be based on experiments performed, as far as possible, by the children themselves. The applications to the home should be the results of the discoveries made in the course of the experiments, which should be undertaken in a spirit of inquiry or research.

The suggestions for practical work are intended to indicate the kind of experiments that are desirable, and not in any way to limit or define what these shall be.

The object of the Course is to inculcate habits of accuracy in reasoning and manipulation, as well as to teach the rules governing domestic management.

The Course is divided into three Parts, which should be taken in order.

PART I.

The measurement of length; English and metric systems; the meaning of standards or units of measurement: the decimal notation; addition and subtraction of decimals experimentally proved.

Practical Work.—With a ruler, with inches in tenths and centimetres in tenths, measure lengths of convenient objects, and find connexion between inches and centimetres. Place two lines of definite length, say, 4·8 centimetres and 9·7 centimetres end on end; ascertain that the whole line thus formed is 14·5 centimetres, and that decimals may be added and subtracted like ordinary numbers.

Compare circumference and diameter of cylinders, &c.

Experimental discovery of law of see-saw or lever. Metric system of weights.

Practical Work.—Make a series of calico bags loaded with gravel, shot, or sand, so that the weights of bag and contents are as the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. Hang these by strings from boxwood lever, making six experiments to discover law. Show use of adjusting weight which slides along lever.

The Balance. Mode of using and adjustments.

Practical Work.—(1.) Adjust balance by screw nut. (2.) Weigh cubes of different woods, and draw lines proportionate to these weights on squared paper.

Measurement of Area. Experimental proof of rule for multiplication of decimals.

Practical Work.—Mark off rectangular area on sectional paper; determine its area in square inches and hundredths of a square inch by counting up squares. Show that we get same figure by multiplying length of rectangle by breadth.

Meaning of ·01 and ·001. Measurement of area of cardboard by weighing.

Measurement of Volume. Selection of unit. Measuring vessels—graduated cylinder, burette, pipette, and measuring flask. Volume by displacement of water.

Practical Work.—Make one cubic centimetre from soap, cheese, clay, &c. Find volume of slate-pencils by dropping into burette half full of water. Measure water displaced from any vessel with suitable aperture on immersion of a solid body.

The weight of measured volumes of water, and measurement of volume indirectly by balance.

Practical Work.—Find the weight of 10, 20, 30, 40, and 50 cubic centimetres measured from burette to show that 1 cubic centimetre of water weighs nearly one gram.

Density or comparison of weights of equal volumes of ordinary liquids employed in household.

Practical Work.—Find volume of glass stoppered bottle by the weight of water it holds; find weight of the same bottle filled with mixtures of milk and water, oil, vinegar, tea, coffee, salt-water, beer, &c. Find weight of 1 cubic centimetre of each of these liquids.

Floating bodies, Lactometer, Hydrometer, Adulteration of liquid foods (milk), &c., detected.

Practical Work.—Show that weight of water or other liquid displaced by a lactometer, or any floating body, is equal to the weight of the floating body. Make a salt solution in which a new-laid egg will float; find density of solution by hydrometer.

Test mixtures of milk and water with lactometer.

General effects of Heat on Matter.

Practical Work.—Make bright iron wire red hot and observe all changes that have occurred. Heat pieces of magnesium and platinum wire.

Expansion of Solids and Liquids. Circulation in hot water systems.

Practical Work.—Show expansion of a flat metal strip or poker, fixed at one end, and resting freely on a fine sewing needle at the other; the rotation of the needle shows the lengthening and shortening of the bar. Show and compare expansion of water and of alcohol in flask fitted with long tube.

Construction of thermometers. Uses of household thermometers for cooking and other purposes. The clinical thermometer and its uses.

Practical Work.—Fill a thermometer tube with coloured alcohol so as to indicate ordinary house temperatures from about 32° F.—100° F. Construction of both Centigrade and Fahrenheit scales for the thermometer.

Weight of the Atmosphere. Expansion of air. Ventilation and ventilators.

Practical Work.—Expel air from a Florence flask by boiling a little water in it. Weigh before and after the admission of air. Find weight of 1 cubic centimetre of air under these conditions. Construct any form of simple air thermometer. Show that hot air is lighter than cold air by weighing a flask closed when full of hot air, and then when full of cold air. Show models of ventilators, and how the currents of air in a room are passing.

Change of state and hidden or latent heat. Heat is required to melt ice or boil water without causing any rise of temperature.

Practical Work.—Mix equal weights of water at 60° C. and ice at 0° C.; a good deal of the ice melts, but no rise of temperature occurs. Show evolution of heat on sudden solidification of a cold supersaturated solution of Glauber's salt or "hypo." Show that a few grams of steam at 100° C. passed into 50 cubic centimetres of cold water will raise it to boiling point, but the same weight of boiling water added to 50 cubic centimetres of cold water would only raise its temperature a few degrees. The steam, therefore, contains hidden or latent heat. Find melting point of butter, lard, &c.

Distillation. Purification and separation of liquids.

Practical Work.—Distil solution of ink, sugar, salt, &c. Distil beer or weak alcohol solution; find density of the distillate.

Evaporation. Condition of atmosphere as regards moisture. Systematic observations.

Practical Work.—Find loss of weight of dish of water day by day. Record graphically. Repeat experiment with larger and more shallow dish.

Changes in weight of a bag of sea-weed. Wet and dry bulb thermometers.

Practical Work.—Weigh day by day bag of sea-weed or roll of flannel. Take readings of hygrometer, barometer, thermometer, &c.

Solution and solubility. Distinction between melting and dissolving. Determination of solubility of common substances. Saturation.

Practical Work.—Ascertain by experiments with small quantities on watch glasses what common substances are soluble in water; also ascertain if some substances, such as hearthstone, chalk, iron, though not dissolved by water, are soluble in other liquids, such as acids and vinegar. Make saturated solutions of salt, soda, borax, alum, chalk, lime, &c. Evaporate in a weighed dish 10 cubic centimetres of each and find weight of residue. Depict graphically relative solubilities.

Transmission of heat. Conversion, radiation, and conduction. Air a bad conductor of heat. Applications to clothing.

Practical Work.—Show hot air currents above a flame; show motion of particles of bran or oak saw-dust in a beaker of water heated by a small flame at bottom; show that thermometer exposed to direct radiation of fire does not register temperature of surrounding air.

PART II.

Principal effects of heat on the chief types of food stuffs. The cooking of animal food. Boiling of an egg.

Practical Work.—Determine temperature at which white of egg coagulates, and notice further changes as temperature rises. Weigh an egg before and after boiling.

The cooking of vegetable foods. The nature of flour and starch. Changes in starch when heated.

Practical Work.—Knead flour in muslin bag to separate starch from gluten. Determine temperature at which starch granules burst in water. Convert starch into British gum.

Fermentation and yeast.

Practical Work.—Leave some yeast in a 20 per cent. solution of sugar in a warm place. Collect some of the gas evolved. Test it with burning taper, litmus, and lime water. Distil some of the fermented liquor; show that first distillate contains alcohol. Examine yeast under microscope.

Yeast substitutes. Baking powder.

Practical Work.—Show that when baking powder is moistened a gas is evolved identical with that from fermentation. On adding any acid to hearthstone, whiting, or washing soda, the same gas is obtained; also from all effervescing mixtures.

Burning of animal and vegetable substances in the air.

Practical Work.—Heat weighed pieces of fat and lean meat; also bread, wood, paper: determine ash. Heat some wooden splinters in hard glass tube; burn the charred remains in air on a platinum wire.

Heating of mineral substances in air.

Practical Work.—Heat weighed quantities of iron, copper, and sulphur.

The rusting of iron. The nature of the change. Is the air concerned? Is water concerned?

Practical Work.—Leave weighed quantities of iron borings or small French nails to rust in air; after two days dry and weigh again. Leave iron nails corked up with water for several days. Leave a muslin bag of iron borings suspended in jar of air over water for 24 hours.

Examination of inactive part of air. Burning of a candle, of phosphorus, and of sulphur.

Practical Work.—Test inactive part of air with litmus, taper, lime water, &c. Burn candle, phosphorus, and sulphur in bell jar of air. Test products of combustion and residual gas in each gas as above.

Phosphorus in matches; the rusting of phosphorus in air. Composition of the air, immaterial nature of heat.

Practical Work.—Burn small piece of phosphorus in round-bottomed Florence flask fitted with india-rubber stopper; weigh before and after. Open under water, measure volume of water entering. Leave a stick of phosphorus to rust slowly in a jar of air over water. Examine residual gas.

Examination of the active part of air. Synthesis of air. The names oxygen and nitrogen.

Practical Work.—Prepare several jars of oxygen by heating a mixture of potassic chlorate and manganese peroxide. Burn sulphur, phosphorus, iron wire, and a piece of charcoal in the gas. Examine products of combustion, and show their identity with those obtained above. Fill up a jar in which iron or phosphorus has rusted, with oxygen, and show resulting mixture behaves similarly to air.

The burning of fuel in air or oxygen. The identity of oxide of carbon or carbonic acid gas with that obtained by fermentation.

Practical Work.—Pass a stream of air or oxygen over some strongly heated charcoal. Collect and examine the products of combustion.

The coal fire. Weight of carbonic acid gas formed is greater than that of the fuel consumed.

Practical Work.—Pass oxygen over weighed quantity of carbon. Absorb the carbonic acid gas in weighed tubes containing caustic soda or lime. Compare increase of weight of caustic soda tube with that of carbon burnt.

Coal gas, its manufacture and products of combustion.

Practical Work.—Heat some fine coal in hard glass tube; collect gaseous products; note that on burning coal gas, carbonic acid gas is formed, as well as a water-like substance.

Flame. The candle and simple coal gas flames. The Bunsen burner and gas stoves. The forms of burners for luminous flames. Reading the gas meter. Construction of a gasalier—Gas explosions.

Practical Work.—Show unburnt gas in inner zone of candle flame.

Take Bunsen burner to pieces, and show how character of flame alters with amount of air admitted. Take a gasalier to pieces, and show object of keeping outer tube full of water. Make mixtures of coal gas and air in gas jar, and apply a light to each. Read the gas meter before and after using the gas stove; calculate cost of fuel used in cooking operations.

Presence of carbonic acid gas in atmosphere. Its manufacture in the lungs.

Practical Work.—Inhale and exhale air through lime water. Leave dish of lime water exposed to air.

PART III.

Water supply. Properties of natural waters. Water as a food. Uses of water.

Practical Work.—Find total solids in water. Find per-centage of water in typical foods by slowly drying over water bath and in air oven at low temperature. Measure gases given off on boiling water.

Impurities in water; hard and soft water; fur on kettles.

Practical Work.—Make artificial hard water by passing carbonic acid gas into lime water till solution becomes clear. Boil this clear solution. Make soap solution and determine the volume of it necessary to just produce a permanent lather with measured volumes of hard and soft waters.

Composition of water. Hydrogen gas, its preparation and combustion; comparison of hydrogen with coal gas.

Practical Work.—Show production of a liquid by burning coal gas or hydrogen in air; show that this liquid is water by freezing it and boiling it. Show production of water by passing hydrogen or coal gas over copper scale.

Acids and alkalis. Their action on litmus and certain coloured substances, on fabrics, and on one another.

Practical Work.—Show colour reactions of the ordinary acids, vinegar, soda, ammonia, and lime with litmus, &c. Exactly neutralise soda with spirits of salt.

Soap and soda. Manufacture and uses.

Practical Work.—Prepare some caustic soda by boiling lime with washing soda. Boil some dripping with caustic soda; salt out the soap.

Cleaning and removal of stains. Cleansing greasy or rusty utensils without waste of soda. Water as a cleansing agent. Necessity for cleaning ovens and stoves.

Practical Work.—Remove grease, ink, or fruit stains.

The elements entering into the composition of the human body. The necessity for supplying these in the form of food. Importance of mixed diet.

Food as a fuel; the maintenance of the body temperature. Air as a food. The kinds of food which supply the different needs of the body.

General functions and structure of the digestive system. Changes that foods undergo.

Preservation of food. Putrefaction and decay; tinned foods. Organisms producing decay.

Practical Work.—Experiments on sterilisation of foods.

Disinfectants. Prevention of contagion.

Warming and ventilation.

6. AGRICULTURE.

1. The Plant.

How it feeds and grows. The food it requires and whence it is obtained. Relations of plant and soil.

2. The Soil.

How soils differ in their properties and suitability for plant growth, as shown by clays, sands, and peats. Heavy and light soils, deep and shallow soils. The sub-soil: how it differs from the soil. Character of different sub-soils. Injurious sub-soils.

The Drainage of the Soil.—When soils need drainage and how to drain them. Effects of drainage on the soil and crop.

Cultivation of the Soil.—Ploughing, harrowing, grubbing, rolling, hoeing and weeding. Principles of construction and action of common farm implements. Proper care of implements.

3. The Crop.

Different crops grown on the farm.

(A.) Grain Crops.

Wheat, barley, oats, beans and peas.

(B.) Root Crops.

Turnips, swedes, mangolds, potatoes, and carrots.

(C.) Fodder and Green Crops.

Clovers and grasses, tares, grain crops grown for fodder, cabbages, rape.

How to know the various crops. Methods of cultivation, sowing and harvesting. How to know the common weeds, of arable and grass land.

Pasture Land.

How to keep it in good condition. Removal of docks, thistles, and other weeds. Manuring. Water supply. Distribution of the live stock on summer pasture.

Meadow Land.

General management. Haymaking. The making of silage. When and how meadow land should be grazed.

Insect and Fungoid Pests.

How to know those most injurious to the different crops. Methods of prevention.

4 The Animal.

The animals of the farm. How they live and grow. The various kinds of stock. Importance of water supply; of warmth, shelter, ventilation, cleanliness, and quietness for health and economy. Principles of Breeding.

The chief breeds of cattle, sheep, pigs, and horses.

Feeding and management of calves, store and fattening cattle, dairy cows, breeding and fattening sheep, various classes of pigs.

Horses, mares, and foals. Care and food of the working horse.

Care of stable and harness.

Poultry and poultry keeping. Different breeds and varieties.

Housing of fowls. Eggs. Management of breeding fowls and rearing of chickens. Feeding and fattening fowls.

Dressing and marketing poultry. Ducks, geese, and turkeys.

Bees.—Hives, hiving and honey.

The Dairy.—Milk: its treatment in the dairy. Different methods of cream raising. Butter making. Cheese making.

5. The Garden.

Cultivation of the soil, digging, trenching, hoeing, raking, &c.

The various implements and their uses.

Propagation: preparation of seed-beds and hot-beds, seeds and seed-sowing, cuttings, grafting, and bedding.

Planting, transplanting, potting, watering, &c., branch pruning and root-pruning.

Vegetables and vegetable growing.

Fruit and fruit cultivation. Gathering, storing and packing of fruit.

Flowers and flower growing.

Insects and other pests.

7. COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC.

It is assumed that the student has already received a good grounding in the simple and compound rules, reduction of weights and measures, Vulgar and Decimal Fractions, Proportion (by the Unitary Method), and Square Root.

The reasons underlying a process should be taught before the method is put into practice.

The complete course is divided into three stages, as follows :—

Elementary Stage.—Short methods in multiplication and division of decimals to a small number of places, together with a knowledge of the degree of approximation possible ; long tots and cross tots, simple and compound practice, interest, and discount, with approximate methods in each. Short methods in mental arithmetic, more particularly in multiplication, division, prices of articles, practice, interest, and discount. Percentages and averages, commission and brokerage, areas and quantities. The metric system and coinage of France.

Intermediate Stage.—Stocks and Shares ; profit and loss ; bills receivable and bills payable, with interest, true discount and Bankers' discount ; the use of logarithms, more particularly for problems on compound interest, insurance, and annuities ; the more important European weights and measures other than the metric ; the coinage of Germany and the United States ; and the weights, measures, and coinage of India.

Advanced Stage.—The student may follow either of the special courses given below.

- (a) Freights, bills of lading, harbour, light, and other dues ; rates of exchange, and transactions with home and foreign bills ; coinage of other European countries, China, and Japan.
- (b) Debentures, preference stock, ordinary stock, profits, and dividends ; liabilities, solvency, and liquidation. Bankers' Interest. Methods of calculating rates and taxes. Compound Interest with special reference to repayment of loans.

8. BOOKKEEPING.

The full course should include instruction in the three stages mentioned below. The Elementary course is specially designed to meet the needs of boys entering an office directly on leaving school, the Intermediate Stage for junior clerks in merchants' and other offices, and the Advanced Stage to enable bookkeepers and others in somewhat more responsible office positions to qualify for undertaking special branches of the higher work usually occurring in the offices of societies, companies, and accountants.

Preparatory Work.—A student before taking this subject should have had a satisfactory grounding in Commercial Arithmetic, more especially in long additions of money, practice, discount, per-centage, and mental arithmetic.

Elementary Stage.—The student should be instructed in keeping by Double Entry a simple set of accounts, necessitating the use of the following books :—

Firstly (a) Waste Book,
Journal,
Ledger.

Later (b) Bought Day Book.
Sold Day Book.
Cash Book (record of all Cash Transactions and Discounts).
Journal (record of transactions other than the above).
Ledger.

The dissection or summarising of the Subsidiary Books.

The balancing of the Cash Book and Bank Account. Posting of Ledger, and Trial Balance. The preparation of an account of Profit and Loss, and a Balance Sheet.

The meaning and use of terms and abbreviations commonly used in bookkeeping and in commerce, including the following :—

Firm, company (limited and unlimited), factor, agent, broker, goodwill, accounts (personal and impersonal, real and nominal), folio, debit and credit, posting, account current, account sales, balance, audit, gross and nett profit, assets, liabilities, principal, capital, revenue, sterling, solvent, insolvent, bankrupt, bad debts, dividend, cheques, price current, receipt, voucher, discounts, consignment, commission, demurrage, salvage, weight (tare, tret, and waste), leases, premiums, depreciation, rents.

The making out of invoices, statements, and cheques.

The sets of transactions dealt with in the Elementary Stage should not be long, complex, or otherwise difficult; but fulness and completeness (especially in ledgering) should be aimed at in the keeping of simple sets of accounts.

Intermediate Stage.—Bookkeeping by Double Entry, including the opening and keeping of the following books taken in the order mentioned below :—

Journal,
Bought Day Book,
Sold Day Book,
Returns Book (Inwards and Outwards),
Cash Book and Petty Cash Book,
Bill Book,
Ledger (Sold and Bought).

Taking stock ; the balancing of the accounts and the testing of the correctness of the postings by a Trial Balance, the preparation of an account of Profit and Loss, and a Balance Sheet in such form as to show the exact position of the business at date of Stock-taking. To dissect or summarise the Subsidiary Books.

The meaning and use of further and more specialised mercantile terms, for example.—Assignment, credit slips, royalties, free on board, bonded goods, debenture, underwriter, insurance, average, brokerage, commission, ad valorem, warrants, bill of lading, charter party, clearing a vessel, del credere, agent, supercargo, tale quale, vendue, scrip, Inland or Foreign Bill (drafting an, acceptance of, currency, maturity, dishonoured, noting and protesting, discounting, renewal, retirement, usance), exchange and par of exchange, agio, bill of sale, classification of vessels at Lloyd's.

Writing out common forms of consignment notes, bills, credit slips, &c.

Various entries arising out of outgoing and incoming consignments.

Advanced Stage.—The nature of capital, whether property or money ; debentures, stocks, shares (preference or ordinary). The classification and arrangement of Capital and Revenue Accounts, and the distinctions between them, Departmental Trading Accounts and Cost Accounts. The private ledger.

Establishment and management of sinking funds and loan repayment accounts and of funds for the redemption of capital and investment accounts, public, railway, and municipal accounts.

All transactions involved by consignments, dishonoured bills, and bad debts.

Partnerships and divisions of profits or losses. The nature and purpose of allowances to be made for depreciation in value of plant and other property.

9. COMMERCIAL GEOGRAPHY.

A good grounding in the physical features of the earth's crust, the variations in climate, and in animal and vegetable life, should have been received before a scholar enters upon the study of Commercial Geography, which deals with the geographical distribution of commercial commodities, chiefly food, with raw and manufactured products, and minerals and with various facilities and hindrances to trade.

The full course is divided into three stages, as follows:—

Elementary Stage.—The British Isles, means of communication and transit by land and by water, the trade routes and facilities for communication with all the more important countries of the world.

Intermediate Stage.—One British Colony, India, and one Foreign Country; the commercial relations of each with Great Britain and with other countries as affecting the interests of Great Britain.

Advanced Stage.—Some one branch of British trade to be thoroughly studied, commencing with the cultivation or production of the raw material, its distribution and conveyance, markets, manufacture, markets for finished products, duties and tariffs (if any), competition of other countries, &c., &c.

It is suggested that each country should be dealt with on lines similar to the following:—

1. Position, configuration, and climate, and their influence on the prosperity of the country.
2. Raw productions:—

(a.) Mineral (b.) Vegetable (c.) Animal	} How and where found, how rendered of } commercial value, for what used, and price } (fluctuant or otherwise).
---	---
3. Manufactures, and markets therefor.
4. Means of transport and communication (natural and artificial.)
5. Exports } Natural or artificial (tariffs) restrictions to the develop-
6. Imports } ment of trade.
7. Seaports, riverports, and other commercial towns.
8. Trade routes traversed by British ships bearing imports and exports.
9. Foreign competition encountered by British merchants and extent thereof.

The course should embrace the study of the localities where, and the geographical and local conditions under which, the various commodities are produced; the means of transit and the trade routes available, both inland and for export, together with the distances and ordinary modes of conveyance to important markets, the quantities available for export, and the actual recent rates of export to various countries; neutral markets, and extent of British trade with them; the quantities in demand as imports, and the extent to which this demand is met by various foreign countries; the capacities of countries for commercial development, including both old and new countries; weights and measures, currencies, tariffs, postal and telegraph arrangements, and social and political characteristics likely to affect trade; ports and harbours, lighthouses and lightships, coaling stations. Maps showing the districts producing the more important natural and manufactured commodities should be made use of.

Special maps, showing rivers, canals, railways, cable, steamship, caravan trade routes, and producing districts should be obtained.

It would be helpful if the students were required to draw a series of charts or maps, each of them illustrating some particular characteristic of the country under revision and on the following lines showing: (1) Contour of the land, lines of drainage and particular localities of the river basins; (2) Distribution of mineral products (details can be obtained and filled in from the text-book); (3) Distribution of vegetable products; (4) Distribution of industries; (5) Distribution of density of population; (6) Canal, railway routes, and trade lines; (7) Steamship routes to nearest countries and trade centres, &c., until each characteristic has been so exhausted.

In order that students may see and examine the real objects spoken of, it is recommended that a well-chosen museum for practical teaching be provided: when a commodity is being dealt with it would be well to show it not only in its natural state, but also in the various stages of manipulation to which it is subjected before the useful article is produced. Where the exhibition of the object is only imperfect, pictures of the object with its native surroundings should be shown.

10. COMMERCIAL HISTORY.

[The course of instruction should, so far as possible, cover the whole scheme. But the latter portion, which treats more exclusively of English Commercial History, should be dwelt on at greater length. Striking episodes and biographies may be used with advantage as centres round which the drier facts may be grouped. It will be well, when possible, to introduce any illustrations of directly local interest.]

Commerce is a great factor in all civilisation. Commercial history tells how mankind has progressed from small isolated communities to the great organised nations of the modern world, which depend for their existence on mutual trade and intercourse.

All trade is dependent on easy means of intercourse. In the beginning all trade had to pass by the natural routes afforded by the waterways of the world. Even at the present day the lines of the great roads and railways often follow the courses of the rivers.

The waterways of the world are of three kinds, the rivers, the narrow seas, and the ocean. So there are three stages in the history of commerce :

1. The first, when trade was carried on entirely by means of the rivers.
2. The second, when men began to make use of the narrow seas, like the Mediterranean.
3. The third, when commerce became world-wide in its extension.

1. The First Stage.—Rivers and their valleys formed the first and easiest means of communication between different communities. So the first beginning of civilisation is to be found in the communities which grew up in the valleys of the great rivers. Bible history affords us two striking examples ; the Babylonian civilisation in the valley of the Euphrates, and the Egyptian civilisation in the valley of the Nile. These are the earliest civilised communities which are important for the history of modern Europe. To them are to be traced the origin of many useful arts, e.g., writing.

This branch of the subject may be further illustrated by the growth of civilisation on the great rivers of China ; by the recent opening up of Africa by means of its river system, the Nile, the Niger, the Congo, the Zambesi ; or by the commercial importance of the Mississippi and St. Lawrence.

2. The Second Stage.—Egyptian and Babylonian civilisations were brought into connection by caravans which crossed the Syrian Desert. Through this intercourse the civilisation of Phœnicia originated on the coast of Syria. The Phœnicians were the first great commercial people to carry on a trade by sea. They traded both to the east—Solomon and Ophir—and to the west, where they founded their colonies of Carthage and Cadiz.

Through the Phœnicians the benefits of eastern civilisation were introduced to the Greeks. The Greeks were also a great commercial nation, and established many colonies in the Mediterranean ; Marseilles one of their colonies. Pytheas, of Marseilles, visits Britain about 320 B.C. In the Roman Empire this stage reached its highest development, all the coasts of the Mediterranean being united under one rule. Roman conquest of Britain.

Commerce by river still goes on. Three great objects of very early commerce were tin, amber, and jade. The trade in these three articles illustrates the commercial importance of a river system. The Phoenicians traded for tin to Cornwall by sea; but tin from Cornwall was also carried overland through France or Gaul; importance of the river system of France—the Seine, the Loire, and the Garonne all give natural means of access to the Rhône and South of France. Consequent commercial importance of Marseilles as the port where the trade of east and west meets.

Amber was chiefly found in the Baltic; the trade in it illustrates the use of the rivers of Germany communicating by the Alpine Passes with the head of the Adriatic, and by the valleys of the Rhine and Rhône with southern France. Jade came from Asia, and marks a trade route which crossed the great plain of Russia and found its way by the valley of the Danube to the west.

The Middle Ages.—Commerce is still in the same stage. Commercial importance of pilgrimages and of the crusades, which re-open the east to the west. Growth of the Italian towns, and especially of Venice. Trade with the east is partly by sea and partly by land routes over the Alpine Passes, by the valleys of the Elbe and Rhine to North Europe. Rise of the Hanse towns and of the Flemish towns.

English Commerce in the Middle Ages.—Commercial importance of the Norman Conquest; opens up England to the continent. Commercial position of London, at the mouth of the Thames and facing the continent; the Cinque Ports; Bristol at the mouth of the Severn, the natural outlet towards Ireland. Mediæval England a producing rather than a manufacturing country. Chief products and staples of trade. Mediæval trade guilds, and the great London companies. Lombard bankers in England. English commercial legislation. Influence of the great wars; the beginning of an English navy.

3. The Third Stage.—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese, Prince Henry the Navigator. Christopher Columbus and the discovery of America. Vasco da Gama and the way to India by sea. Through these discoveries the commerce of the world enters on an oceanic stage. Coincidence of these discoveries with the invention of printing and the Reformation.

When Commerce becomes Oceanic the course of Trade is diverted. Venice, the Hanse, and the Flemish towns begin to decline. England participates in the benefits of the new discoveries. Sebastian Cabot. Continued importance of London and Bristol. The merchant adventurers. Voyages of the Elizabethans; Drake and Hawkins. The East India Company founded.

Rise of Holland. Commerce and Colonies of the Dutch. Struggle of England and Holland for commercial supremacy. The Navigation Acts. The first English colonies. Development of the East India Company. Foundation of the Bank of England.

Commercial Expansion of England in the Eighteenth Century.—The struggle with France. Growth of the first Colonial Empire of Britain. Conquest of India. Loss of the North American Colonies. Acquisition of Canada and discovery of Australia. England becomes a great manufacturing country; rise of Manchester and Liverpool. The factory system; the discoveries of Arkwright, Hargreaves, and Watt. The canal system. Collieries, ironworks, potteries.

The Nineteenth Century.—The Great War. English commercial supremacy established. Inventions ; railways, steamships, manufacturing machinery, telegraph, electricity. Free Trade. Factory Acts. Discoveries of gold. Emigration. Growth of the colonies and of the United States.

The Suez Canal. Renewed importance of the Mediterranean, of Marseilles, of Egypt. Growth of Hamburg and Antwerp, two towns which are the natural outlets for the river system of Europe, and well placed for an oceanic trade.

The far east opened to European trade. African discoveries and expansion of trade.

11. COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENCE AND OFFICE ROUTINE.

In the following scheme the First Year's Course is planned to give boys and girls, on leaving the day school, an intelligent knowledge of the details and minor duties which are expected from them on entering business life. Pains should be taken to impress on the pupil the importance of a satisfactory discharge of his duties and the value of habits of obedience, accuracy, promptitude, and dispatch.

The Second Year's Course is intended for Junior Clerks and those engaged in subordinate positions in offices, warehouses, and other establishments.

No student should take up this subject until he has a satisfactory grounding in Commercial Arithmetic, more especially in long additions of money, practice, discount, percentage, and mental arithmetic.

First Year's Course.

A.

Way to answer advertisements and to write letters of application for situations.

Out-going letters, etc.; press-copying of written and type-written matter.

Methods of obtaining multiplex copies of letters, documents, and accounts.

Making up letters for post—Folding letters; addressing envelopes; enclosures; late-fee letters; registration and insurance of letters, etc.

Indexing—Copy letter-book; the postage book, and petty cash book.

Principal postal regulations and rates of postage—Inland letters; colonial letters; foreign letters. Book post: Inland and foreign; newspapers; patterns and samples; parcels; post-cards; express delivery; railway letter post; redirection.

Incoming letters, etc.—Letter and telegram register; filing, pigeon-holing, and docketing letters.

Telegrams—Writing out and sending telegrams.

The telephone—Sending and receiving telephonic messages.

Forwarding goods—Delivery book; consignment notes; use of railway guide; outline of the railway and canal systems of the United Kingdom.

Remitting money through the Post Office—Postal orders; money orders; telegraph money orders; advice notes.

Receipts for money—Receipts of various kinds.

B. First Steps in Business Correspondence.

The essentials of a good business letter—Correctness as to facts, dates, prices, etc.; clearness and conciseness.

The difference between private letters, official letters, and commercial letters, as regards style and arrangement.

The setting out of a letter :—

The heading.

The date.

The address—Where placed ; the correct methods of addressing individuals taking their position, character, and status into consideration ; also of addressing Government Departments and firms variously composed.

The commencement—Its position ; the differences between the commencement of private and commercial letters.

The body—Arrangement of points in logical order, devoting a paragraph to each.

The ending—Differences as before.

The signing of letters :—

(a) Who sign for the firm and how.

(b) Who sign as authorised by power of attorney and how ; why this authority is given.

(c) How employes sign who are not specially authorised by power of attorney.

The letter reference—What this is ; where usually given ; its use.

Numbering letters—When usual and why done.

Abbreviations usually made use of in correspondence in reference to dates, time, etc. :—ult., inst., prox., a.m., p.m., P.T.O., Regd., P.O. Encl., do., P.S., etc.

The writing of letters relating to business transactions of all kinds, such as the purchase and sale of goods ; the forwarding of invoices, goods, etc. ; remitting money by post, cheque, bill of exchange, etc.

Précis writing as used in commerce.

Second Year's Course.

Preparation of inland and foreign invoices, account sales, and accounts current, and discount and interest calculations on same.

Price lists.

More advanced instruction in railway rates and cable systems. The uses and methods of entry in the principal office and warehouse books, practice in checking same.

Bank deposit and current accounts ; pass books ; drafts ; cheques and the crossing and endorsement of same ; "not negotiable" cheques ; presentment for payment ; stopping payment.

Bills of exchange ; inland and foreign bills ; stamp ; date ; amount ; parties ; acceptance ; liabilities of parties ; currency ; days of grace ; usance ; endorsement ; signing bills ; case of need ; bills sent for acceptance ; sets and copies of bills ; presentment for payment ; dishonour ; discounting bills ; interest ; advantages of bills of exchange ; how money is remitted by bills of exchange ; accommodation bills ; promissory notes ; I O U's ; council bills ; telegraphic transfers ; letters of credit.

The markets, and methods of buying and selling goods ; how to read the market reports in the daily newspaper.

The shipment of merchandise, and the forms used in connection therewith, as charter parties, bills of lading and letters of hypothecation.

Business correspondence of a more advanced character ; the writing of business circulars, pamphlets and advertisements, and hints as to the compilation of catalogues ; modern methods of illustration, with approximate cost.

How to correct printers' errors and proofs, and the routine of getting matter printed.

The routine of obtaining payment through the medium of the County Court, and from a person's estate, when he has become bankrupt.

Fire, life, fidelity, employer's liability, accident, plate glass insurance, and other forms of insurance of value to, and made use of by business men.

12. VOCAL MUSIC.

(i.) Staff Notation.

Grade I.—Tune.—The Staff and the alphabetical names of lines and spaces in the treble clef. [Male pupils should also be taught the bass clef.] The scales of C, F, and G major. Memorising and pointing simple tunes on the staff. Exercises in leaping from note to note of the scales named.

Time.—The relative values of breves, semibreves, crotchets, and quavers. Semibreve, minim, and crotchet rests. Dotted minims and dotted crotchets. Simple rhythmic exercises combining the foregoing. The Time signatures $\frac{3}{4}$, $\frac{4}{4}$, $\frac{3}{8}$, and $\frac{4}{8}$.

N.B.—Although it is an advantage to study tune and time separately, they should be combined at every stage.

Ear Training.—Imitation (without naming) of simple phrases. The naming of the order in which the tones of a key chord are sung.

Songs and Pieces.—Unison songs with or without accompaniment. Part songs of a simple character where possible. Rounds. The music and the words should be carefully chosen with a view to improve taste, without being dull and uninteresting.

Voice Training.—Attention should be given constantly to exercises in breathing and in the production of good tone. Bad tone in the monotoning of time exercises should not be allowed.

Grade II.—Tune.—The scales of all the major keys, but particularly those most used in vocal music, viz., C, F, B flat, E flat, A flat, G, D, A and E. The sharpened 4th and the flattened 7th. Diatonic intervals.

Time.—All the most used time signatures, but particularly six-eight time. Dotted quavers and quaver rests. Semiquavers. Tied notes.

N.B.—Exercises combining the above time and tune should be studied. It must not be expected that such exercises can be performed at first sight at this stage, but they should be understood when learnt.

Ear Training.—Exercises on the Doh chord and on simple phrases moving stepwise.

Songs and Pieces.—These should be chosen to clearly and pleasantly illustrate the tune and time facts detailed above. The use of part music is desirable.

Voice Training.—Exercises designed to promote good full tone, and to give fluency. Care should be taken to ascertain the vocal capacity of pupils in order that no voices may be strained.

Grade III.—Tune.—The most used minor scales, viz., A, D, G, C, F, E, B, and F sharp minor. Common accidentals and easy change of key. Intervals, diatonic, and chromatic.

Time.—Triplets. Rhythms combining various beat divisions in succession.

Time and Tune.—Studies combining the above time and tune.

Ear Training.—The naming of groups of scale tones in stepwise order, and for the quicker pupils, the naming of groups of scale tones in any order, the keynote being sounded.

Pieces.—These should be well adapted to interest the class, and every endeavour should be made to secure tasteful execution.

Voice Training.—Same as for Grade II.

(ii.) Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

Grade I.—Tune.—The major scale. The mental effects of the various tones and their association with the sol-fa syllables. Octaves and octave marks. The hand signs for scale tones, and the use of the modulator. The memorizing and pointing of simple tunes.

Time.—Pulse accent, and two-pulse, three-pulse, and four-pulse measure. Whole-pulse tones and continuations, half-pulse tones and continuations, quarter pulse tones, and whole-pulse rests.

N.B.—Although it is an advantage to study tune and time separately, they should be combined at every stage.

Ear Training.—The imitation (without sol-faing) of simple phrases. The naming of the order in which the tones of the Doh chord are sung.

Songs and Pieces.—(Same as in Staff Notation, Grade I.)

Voice Training.—(Same as in Staff Notation, Grade I.)

Grade II.—Tune.—The sharpened 4th and the flattened 7th. Changes of key of one remove pointed on the modulator. Bridge notes and simple changes of key written or printed. Singing to "laa."

Time.—Simple rhythms in six-pulse measure. The divisions of pulses named by the time names TAAtefe tafaTAI and TAAfe SAA TAI and TAA SAL. [The use of time names is not obligatory.]

N.B.—Exercises combining the above time and tune should be studied. It must not be expected that such exercises can be performed at first sight at this stage, but they should be understood when learnt.

Ear Training, Songs and Pieces, Voice Training.—(Same as in Staff Notation, Grade II.)

Grade III.—(Leading to Staff notation.)

Tune.—The minor chord and the minor scale. The names and commonest uses of chromatic tones.

Time.—Triplets. Rhythms combining various divisions of a pulse in succession.

Time and Tune.—Studies combining the above time and tune.

Ear Training, Pieces, Voice Training.—(Same as in Staff Notation, Grade III.)

Staff Notation.—The staff and the alphabetical names of the lines and spaces in the treble-clef. [Male pupils should also be taught the bass clef.]

The signatures of keys and the rules for finding keynotes from a given signature.

Singing from the teacher's pointing on a staff.

The most used time signatures, and the values of notes from the breve to the semiquaver.

The signs for rests. Dotted minims, dotted crotchets, and dotted quavers.

13. DOMESTIC ECONOMY.1. Food.

Its uses.—(1) To produce internal heat ; (2) to build up the body.

(i.) Food as Fuel.

The body a living engine—The chief classes of warming foods :

(a.) Starch and Sugar.—Change of starch into sugar in digestion—Bursting of starch grains in cooking.

Examples : Potatoes, rice, flour.

(b.) Fat.—Its great warming power—Its use in winter and in cold climates.

Examples : Butter, fat of meat, oil.

(ii.) Food as Body-former.

(a.) Flesh-making.—Albumen and kindred substances.

Examples : Meat, eggs, milk.

Vegetable albumen. Examples : Peas, beans, flour, oatmeal.

(b.) Minerals.—Their use in purifying the blood, and hardening the bones—salt—lime—acids.

Examples : Fruits, vegetables, milk.

Model Food.—Milk and its products.

Mixed Diets, containing albumen, starch, and fat.

Examples : Bread and cheese, meat and potatoes, bacon and beans, rice pudding, lentil soup, Irish stew.

National Diets.

Examples : (Scotch) Porridge and milk ; (Irish) Potatoes and buttermilk.

Drinks.—Classes of drink :

(a.) Feeding, as milk, cocoa.

(b.) Thirst-quenching, as water.

(c.) Stimulating, as tea, coffee.

(d.) Intoxicating, as beer, spirits.

2. Air.

Its composition and uses.—The breathing apparatus. How air is made impure. Bad effects of impure air.

Ventilation.

Upward movement of warm air—the two openings, for letting in pure, and letting out impure air—use of fire in ventilation—Simple modes of ventilation without direct draught.

3. The Skin.

Action of the Skin.—Cooling effect of evaporation—pores of the skin—perspiration—fever—effect of alcohol on the action of the skin—dangers of wet clothing and sudden chill—warmth essential for infants.

Cleanliness.—Its importance to the healthy action of the skin—baths, hot and cold—proper heat of a bath in health and sickness—the hair—the teeth.

4. Clothing.

Conductors and non-conductors of heat—Chief materials—as linen, cotton, silk, wool, leather.

Air a non-conductor.

Examples—Fur, velvet, cotton, wool.

Advantages of woollen materials—warmth without weight—

Absorption of moisture.

Evils of tight clothing—hindrance to breath and circulation of the blood—evils of waterproof clothing.

Points to aim at in clothing—cleanliness—ease—beauty—economy—proper clothing for babies and young children.

5. Washing.

Water—hard and soft, hot and cold.

Washing materials—their effect on dirt and dye.

Washing operations—as soaking, rubbing, rinsing, boiling, wringing, mangling, starching, ironing.

Woollen garments—washing without shrinking. Careful airing.

6. The Meals.

(a.) Providing.—Quantity of food required—meals for a family—choice of food—prices.

(b.) Cooking.—Effects of sudden and gradual application of heat. Chief methods of cooking:—roasting, boiling, stewing, frying, baking.

Advantages and disadvantages of each method.

Economy in cooking: as the stockpot, dripping jar.

What food grown-up people and children require—symptoms of insufficient feeding—food for infants.

7. The House.—Requisites for a healthy house.

Situation.—Drainage and water supply—cisterns and how they must be kept clean.

The Kitchen and Scullery.—The sink.

The Closets.—Danger of drain air—dustbins and disposal of refuse.

Furnishing.—Some important points: as the bed—the stove—the larder.

Warming.—Laying fires—economy of coal—the kitchen boiler.

Lighting.—Gas, lamps, candles. Necessary precautions.

Cleaning.—Sweeping, dusting, scrubbing. Order and beauty in the home.

8. Management of Income.

Marketing—advantages of ready-money payments. Account Keeping. Saving. Principles of Insurance. Clubs and Benefit Societies. Making outfits.

9. Health and Sickness.

General laws of health—exercise, sleep, regularity of meals, &c.

Treatment of common accidents—as cuts, bruises, sprains, burns.

Treatment of common ailments—as colds, toothache, gatherings

Care of infants—as food, clothing, sleep.

Management of a sick room—food for the sick. Special care required in convalescence.

Symptoms of common fevers, disinfection.

Sanitary precautions against cholera and other epidemics.

14. MANUAL INSTRUCTION IN WOOD.

(1.) Woodwork.

All lessons in woodwork should be associated with drawing. Each member of the class should, as a rule, make a measured working drawing (plan and elevation or isometric view) of each exercise before proceeding to the work at the bench, and must then work as far as possible from his own drawing, not from a diagram or model, which may only be used so far as necessary to elucidate the drawing. The pupils should be practised in orthographic and isometric or conventional representations of simple constructions; these should be to scale and dimensioned, but an isometric scale need not be used. Drawing to scale from sketches on the black-board is a good exercise, but students should not, except in the earliest lessons, be allowed to copy any drawing exactly as it is placed before them; they should generally be required to transpose from orthographic into isometric projection or vice versa, and to draw additional views frequently. The pupils may also make dimensioned freehand sketches (plans, elevations, &c.) of the objects they are about to make, from good models before proceeding to make their own finished working drawing. Drawing-board, T square, and set squares should be used. The aim of the teacher, in all the exercises, should be to secure accuracy rather than quickness of work.

In connexion with their practical exercises the pupils should receive object-lessons on the nature of the different kinds of timber commonly used, and on the principles underlying the construction of the simpler tools.

The lessons should comprise such subjects as the following:—

1. Timber.—Its nature, growth, description, qualities, seasoning, uses, &c. Countries and ports from which we receive our supplies, the forms in which it is brought into the market.

Description of the more common kinds of woods and purposes for which they are best adapted.

2. Tools.—Their names, proper uses, correct handling, principles of construction, and the modes of hardening, sharpening, and using them.

The varieties and uses of the various accessories required in construction, such as nails, screws, glue.

The bench work should take the form of a series of carefully graduated exercises, each successive exercise introducing a new tool or a new mode of using one with which the class are already acquainted. The common tendency to allow the work to take the form of amateur "Carpentry," and that too often of a rough character, should be carefully guarded against. It should always be remembered that the object of the instruction is to train the hand and eye by accurate measurement and by the use of tools, and to impart a knowledge of the principles of simple construction; also that a high degree of skill and rapidity of execution, which are essential to the artisan, and are generally obtained by the frequent repetition of the same exercise, are not to be aimed at. The production of a large number of articles should, similarly, not be made an object of chief concern, especially where this would involve the frequent repetition of the same exercise, or roughness of finish.

The exercises should be so selected as to give variety, and should involve practice in the varied use of different tools and in different methods of construction.

The pupils may be exercised at first in sawing out from a plank pieces of wood of such dimensions as may be conveniently used in future exercises, the pieces so sawn to be cut across in suitable lengths and planed true to required sizes.

The exercises should include making models of the ordinary carpentry joints, such as a simple cross-halving joint; a dovetail halving joint; a mortise and tenon joint; a slip tenon and simple bridle joint. These should be followed by exercises in making simple frames having three or more joints.

Subsequently the pupils may also well be exercised in making models of some useful object, such as a box with dovetail joint, a knife cleaning box, a corner bracket.

With pupils who have made some progress, exercises in hard wood might be practised, such as making a mitre box; a T square 18 inches long; a wooden try square 12 inches long.

For most of the exercises, American yellow pine, or best yellow deal, may be used. For the hard wood exercises American bass wood, beech or pear wood.

Scheme of Instruction.

First Year's Course.

Exercises in Joint Work.—Housing joint, cross halving joint, T-halving joint, notched T-joint, notched cross joint.

Models.—Window wedge, plant label, square prism, square flower stick, key label, flat ruler, string winder, round ruler, flower-pot cross.

Tools used.—Rip and tenon saws, jack and smoothing planes, firmer chisel, compass, rule, gauge, hammer, brace and bit, try square.

Second Year's Course.

Exercises in Joint Work.—Mortise and tenon joint, bridle joint, tongue and groove joint.

Models.—Bench hook, pen tray, flower-pot stand, flat ruler, nailed box, finger plate, bracket, set squares.

New tools introduced.—Rebate plane, trying plane, mortise gauge, mitre square gauge, nails and screws, glue.

Third Year's Course.

Exercises in Joint Work.—Cogging joint, mortise bridle joint, oblique halving joints, Tredgold's notched halving joints. Common box dove-tailing.

Models.—T square, try square, towel roller and rests, drawing board, soap-box, scoop, mirror frame, knife box, organ pipe and other examples of science apparatus.

New Tools.—Spokeshave, bevel, dovetail saw, cutting gauge.

First Course.

Evening class meeting, say two hours, twice a week:—

Practice of simple channel cuts with gouge and chisel.

Second Course.

Practice in tracing from designs ; outlining simple forms of leaves and ornament with chisel, gouge, or parting tool.
Carving flat patterns with very little modelling.

Third Course.

For a class meeting three or four nights a week :—

Drawing, tracing,

Modelling in clay, but only roughly, so as to obtain an idea of form and mass.

Carved studies in pine, such as leaves, fruit, &c.

Carving in the round.

15. MANUAL INSTRUCTION IN METAL.

Instruction in metal work in the Evening Continuation School may consist either—

- (i.) Of elementary metal work, such as chipping, filing, and shaping metal, either by hand, or in the lathe, or by the use of machine tools ; or
- (ii.) Of metal embossing and chasing, in which case sheet-metal is either driven back from the face, or hammered out from the back into relief, and finished on the front surface with fine punches and graving tools.

All teaching should be associated with careful drawing, which should be carried out, if possible, to the full size of the work, or if not, should be executed to scale. The drawings should be supervised by the instructor of metal work, and should be neatly inked in, and supplied with figured dimensions. They should, moreover, serve as the working drawings for the subsequent exercises in the workshop. Such drawings should be executed either from sketches and directions given by the teacher on the blackboard, or they should be based on actual measurements made by the students from models or patterns. In all cases the aim of the teacher should be to impress on the class the importance of accuracy, rather than quickness of work.

It will be advisable that the students should receive clear notions of the properties of metals and their alloys, and of the various methods of casting, rolling, drawing, hammering, annealing, tempering, riveting, &c. Also of the special kinds of work for which different metals are adapted—the distinction between cast and wrought iron, steel, copper, brass, bronze, &c., special attention being directed to such metals as are used by the class.

Explanations should be given of the tools in common use and of the best mode of constructing them, handling them, and keeping them in order.

The exercises should be directed, as far as possible, to teach the student the best way of setting out his work, the tools adapted for the purpose and commonly used, and the objects aimed at in the various operations.

Time.—One hour a week in the First and Second Years ; two hours a week in Third ; more in Fourth (varies).

(1.) Scheme of Instruction for Elementary Metal Work.

First Year.

Filing a square of iron ; chipping off corners.

Making a try square in steps :—

Filing circular piece of iron and preparing sides for try square.

Drilling holes and countersinking them.

Marking out and cutting out the centre right-angled piece from the sheet.

Riveting together and finishing try square.

Second Year.

Making drills for use.

Marking out, and cutting with chisel from sheet, the two legs for callipers.

Flattening, filing edges and sides to shape.

Cutting out, drilling and turning washers and riveting together.

Various exercises at lathe.

Forging points or spikes, hook, staple, &c.

Making a paper-weight to size by filing, chipping out the bottom, drilling and screwing holes, turning knob out of bar iron, and screwing it.

Third Year.

Making scribing block by filing cube, turning base and upright, forging and filing needle, drilling, tapping, and filing nut, and making washer.

Making tapping key for electrical work, wood base, gun-metal fittings, turned and milled screws, springs, &c.

Fourth Year.

Small mechanisms, such as screw jacks, parallel vices, raising tables, eccentrics, lathe heads, drilling machines, leading screws, stocks and dies, dividing machines, small lathe, surface plates, electro-magnets, dynamos, galvanometers, &c.

The making of these involves screw-cutting, pattern-making, turning, fitting, forging, tool-making.

(2.) Metal Embossing and Chasing.

Moulding thin sheet metal fixed on soft wood. Outlining simple forms with punch and matts; perforating metal in patterns.

Method of obtaining relief by driving back the ground with stamps and punches.

Use of prick wheel for outlining patterns, tracers, and pointed matt.

Repousse work on pitch.

Working from the back to obtain high relief, use of beaters and punches, use of graver and fine punches for work on the face. Chasing and engraving on metal.

APPENDIX 1.

ARTICLES of the CODE OF REGULATIONS for Day Schools applicable to both Day and Evening Schools.

3. The term "Elementary School"* means "a school or department of a school at which elementary education is the principal part of the education there given, and does not include any school or department of a school at which the ordinary payments in respect of the instruction, from each scholar, exceed ninepence a week." (Elementary Education Act, 1870, sec. 3.) "Elementary School."

The "ordinary payment" for each scholar must cover all the instruction given in the school; and will, as a rule, be found by dividing the total amount of fees payable for any week, by the number of scholars on the registers for that week. But if more than one-third of the scholars pay fees exceeding ninepence a week the "ordinary payment" will be considered to exceed ninepence a week. The term "payments in respect of the instruction" means the fee payable by the parent, and does not include any payment for the purchase of books or other such articles. But a weekly or other periodical payment for the use of books or other school requisites, if required as a condition of admission to the school, is treated as a fee.

3a. Wherever the word "school" occurs in this Code, it is to be held to include "department of a school." For the purposes of this Code the Department have power to decide whether a part of a school is or is not a department.

4. The term "Public Elementary School" is defined by the Elementary Education Act, 1870, sec. 7, which is as follows:— "Public Elementary School."

"Every elementary school which is conducted in accordance with the following regulations shall be a public elementary school within the meaning of this Act; and every public elementary school shall be conducted in accordance with the following regulations (a copy of which regulations shall be conspicuously put up in every such school); namely,

- "(1.) It shall not be required, as a condition of any child being admitted into or continuing in the school, that he shall attend or abstain from attending any Sunday school or any place of religious worship, or that he shall attend any religious observance or any instruction in religious subjects in the school or elsewhere, from which observance or instruction he may be withdrawn by his parent, or that he shall, if withdrawn by his parent, attend the school on any day exclusively set apart for religious observance by the religious body to which his parent belongs:
- "(2.) The time or times during which any religious observance is practised, or instruction in religious subjects is given at any meeting of the school shall be either at the beginning or at the end, or at the beginning and the end of such meeting, and shall be inserted in a time-table to be approved by the Education Department, and to be kept permanently and conspicuously affixed in every schoolroom; and any scholar may be withdrawn by his parent from such observance or instruction without forfeiting any of the other benefits of the school:
- "(3.) The school shall be open at all times to the inspection of any of Her Majesty's Inspectors, so, however, that it shall be no part of the duties of such inspector to inquire into any instruction in religious subjects given at such school, or to examine any scholar therein in religious knowledge, or in any religious subject or book:
- "(4.) The school shall be conducted in accordance with the conditions required to be fulfilled by an elementary school in order to obtain an annual parliamentary grant."

* It is provided by the Education Code (1890), Act 1890, that "so much of the definition of the term 'elementary school' in section 3 of the Elementary Education Act, 1870, as requires that elementary education shall be the principal part of the education given in an elementary school shall not apply to evening schools."

- "Inspector." 5. The term "Inspector" means one of the Inspectors of schools appointed by Her Majesty on the recommendation of the Department or any person employed by the Department as Acting Inspector, Sub-Inspector, Directress of Needlework, or Inspectress of Cookery, or any Inspector of Returns appointed under the Elementary Education Act, 1870, sec. 71.
- "Chief Inspector." The term "Chief Inspector" means one of Her Majesty's Inspectors appointed to superintend the work of the other Inspectors in a certain division of England and Wales, or as Inspector of Training Colleges.
- "Organising teacher." 5*. An "Organising Teacher" means a certificated teacher, or other person approved by the Department, who either inspects schools and advises managers and teachers in view of the Inspector's visit, or instructs or examines teachers in any special subjects or educational methods, * * *
- "Managers." 6. The term "Managers" includes all persons who have the management of any elementary school, whether the legal interest in the school house is or is not vested in them.
7. School Boards are the managers of all schools provided by them, but may delegate the management of any such school to other persons in the manner provided by the Elementary Education Act, 1870, sec. 15.
- Duties of managers. 8. The managers are held responsible by the Department for the conduct of their schools, for their maintenance in efficiency, and for the provision of all needful furniture, books, and apparatus, and in particular of—
- (a.) suitable registers ;
 - (b.) a portfolio to contain official letters ;
 - (c.) a diary or log-book ;
 - (d.) a cash book ;
 - (e.) the Code and Revised Instructions for each year ;
 - (f.) a book for recording minutes of managers' meetings.
- The log-book must be stoutly bound. * * * It must be kept by the principal teacher, who is required to enter in it from time to time such events as the introduction of new books, apparatus, or courses of instruction, any plan of lessons approved by the Inspector, the visits of managers, absence, illness, or failure of duty on the part of any of the school staff, or any special circumstances affecting the school, that may, for the sake of future reference or for any other reason, deserve to be recorded.
- No reflections or opinions of a general character are to be entered in the log-book.
- Correspondent to be appointed. 9. (a) The managers are required to appoint a Correspondent with the Department, who must not be any paid teacher in the school.
- Notice should at once be given to the Department of any change of Correspondent occurring during the school year. The notice should be signed by the outgoing Correspondent or by the Chairman of the managers.
- (b) A School Board is required to appoint a Treasurer.
- Notice should at once be given to the Department by the Clerk of any change of Treasurer.
- Duties of Inspectors. 18. Inspectors are employed to visit schools to examine whether the conditions of annual grants have been fulfilled, and to report the result to the Department.
- Auditors of Accounts. The Department may, if they think it necessary, employ auditors of accounts to visit schools and inspect their accounts.
- Application for grants. 19. No school is placed on the list of schools in receipt of annual grants, herein-after called "the annual grant list," until an application has been addressed to the Secretary, Education Department, Whitehall,

London, S.W., and a form of preliminary statement has been filled up and sent to the Department by the managers * * *

Any school from which the entire annual grant is withheld is at once removed from the annual grant list, and cannot be replaced on that list until a fresh application has been addressed to the Department.

21. An Inspector may visit at any time without notice any public elementary school or place in which the scholars are receiving instruction under the Code. Visits without notice.

23. The managers are supplied with a form of annual return * * * Managers' returns.

24. The summary of any report made by the Inspector * * * Summary of and any remarks made upon it by the Department, must, as soon as Report. communicated to the managers, be copied verbatim into the log-book and signed by the correspondent of the managers.

65. The managers are required to state in their annual return whether the conduct, character, and attention to duty of all teachers engaged in the school have been satisfactory: and the Inspector reports each year on the efficiency of all the teachers engaged in a school. * * * Managers' and Inspectors' reports.

66. Teachers holding parchment certificates have no entry made thereon, but are entitled to claim from the managers free of charge a certified copy of the Inspector's annual report after it has been entered in the log-book.

67. A certificate may at any time be recalled or suspended, but not until the Department have informed the teacher of the charges against him and given him an opportunity of explanation. Recall or suspension of certificates.

76. The conditions required to be fulfilled by a school in order to obtain an annual parliamentary grant are those set forth in this Code. The Department's decision whether these conditions are fulfilled in any case is final and conclusive. Conditions of annual grant.

* * * * * School a public elementary school.

77. The school must be conducted as a public elementary school.

78. No child may be refused admission as a scholar on other than reasonable grounds. Children not to be refused admission.

79. The Time Table must be approved for the school by the Inspector on behalf of the Department, and must be open at any reasonable time, except the ordinary school hours, to the inspection of the parent of any scholar attending the school, who makes a written application to see it. In a school provided by a school board, the consent of the Department must be given to the weekly fee (if any) prescribed by the board. Time-table, and in board schools fees, to be approved. (Elementary Education Act, 1870, sec. 17).

80. The school must not be unnecessary. * * *

81. The school must not be conducted for private profit, and must not be farmed out by the managers to the teacher. The managers must be responsible for the payment of teachers and all other expenses of the school. Not an adventure or farmed school.

85. The Department must be satisfied:—

(a) that the school premises are healthy, are properly constructed and arranged for teaching, lighted, warmed, cleaned, drained, and ventilated, are supplied with suitable offices, and contain sufficient accommodation for the scholars attending the school, and that the school has a sufficient staff, and is properly provided with furniture, books, maps, and other apparatus of elementary instruction. Conditions relating to (a) premises, staff, furniture, and apparatus.

N.B.—All new school premises and enlargements must conform generally to the rules contained in Schedule VII., and the plans must be approved by the Department before such new premises and enlargements are passed under this Article. The numbers for which such new premises and enlargements are passed will be settled by the Department, and will generally be calculated in accordance with the rules in Schedule VII. Subject to the conditions laid down in the body of this Article (85 (a)), schools already receiving annual grants will be regarded as accommodating the number of scholars for which they have been hitherto recognised by the Department, provided that in no case there shall be less than 80 cubic feet of internal space and 8 square feet of internal area for each unit of average attendance. If in the neighbourhood of any school there is a deficiency of school accommodation, which is being supplied with due dispatch, the accommodation of that school may with the consent of the Department be temporarily calculated at 80 cubic feet and 8 square feet for each unit of average attendance.

No room may be habitually used for a larger number of scholars than that for which it is passed by the Department.

(d.) Registers
certificates.

- (d) that the admission and * attendance of the scholars are carefully registered by or under the supervision of the principal teacher, and periodically verified by the managers; that accounts of income and expenditure are accurately kept by the managers and duly audited; and that all statistical returns and certificates of character are trustworthy.

* * * * *

In the Isle of Man the accounts of every school must be audited and certified by the auditor of the Board of Education for the Island.

Managers' returns.

87. All returns called for by the Department or by Parliament must be duly made.

The annual return to be made to the Department (Art. 23) contains a form of authority, to be signed by three persons (none of whom may be a paid teacher in the school), empowering one of their number or a firm of bankers to sign the Order on Her Majesty's Paymaster-General for any annual grant made to the school. In a school provided by a school board this authority is not required, but the Order must be signed by the Treasurer of the Board.

Compliance with order to close school.

88. The managers must at once comply with any notice of the sanitary authority of the district in which the school is situated, or any two members thereof acting on the advice of the Medical Officer of Health, requiring them for a specified time, with a view to preventing the spread of disease or any danger to health likely to arise from the condition of the school, either to close the school or to exclude any scholars from attendance, but after complying they may appeal to the Department if they consider the notice to be unreasonable.

School accounts to be published and report to be open to inspection.

89. Immediately on the receipt of the annual report of the Inspector, the managers must publish the last account of income and expenditure furnished to the Department by posting a copy thereof on the door of the school or in some other public place in the school district, and keeping the same so posted for not less than fourteen consecutive days exclusive of Sundays and holidays. They must also publish in the same manner and for the same days a notice that the said account and the report will be, during the six months following the date of the notice, open to inspection at the school or some other convenient place (named in the notice) at any reasonable time except the ordinary school hours, and that copies or extracts may be made, and must submit the same to inspection, and permit such copies or extracts to be made accordingly.

90. The income of the school must be "applied only for the purpose of public elementary schools" (Elementary Education Act, 1876, sec. 20). Application of income of school.

This is held by the Department to allow the school accounts to include expenditure on a school library, or part of the salary of an organising teacher, or of a teacher of drawing, manual instruction, drill, cookery, laundry work, or any other special subject, employed by the managers of several schools at a central class or as a peripatetic teacher; but not any outlay on the premises beyond the cost of ordinary repairs and minor improvements, or expenditure on Sunday schools or school treats, or for other purposes not recognised by the Department as educational. Any income from endowment if spent according to the terms of the trust upon other than educational objects is not held to be income of the school.

91. Before placing a school on the annual grant list the Department ascertain, so far as possible, whether the above conditions are fulfilled; and if any one of them is clearly not satisfied the Inspector is not instructed to visit the school. Power to refuse inspection.

92. In cases where any of the conditions of annual grants set forth in this Code (except such conditions as are specially imposed by Act of Parliament) are not fulfilled, the Department have power, after considering all the circumstances, to pay the grant or a portion of the grant, and give a warning to the managers that the grant may be withheld next year. Power to warn instead of withholding grant.

Circular 339.

Circular to Inspectors.

INSPECTION OF EVENING SCHOOLS.

Education Department, Whitehall, S.W.
22nd November 1893.

As the introduction of the Evening School Code makes a very great change in the mode of inspection of Evening Schools, it is thought advisable to communicate to the Inspectors the views of the Department on certain questions which have already arisen or are likely to arise.

1. Article 11 (c) of the Evening School Code requires the managers to give notice to the Department at the beginning of the Session that they desire a grant. When this notice is received, if the premises in which the school is held have not been previously under inspection, and appear prima facie to be in any way unsuitable, plans may be asked for, or the Inspector may be sent to report on their suitability. In the great majority of cases the premises will be well known, and no such visit will be necessary. In these cases and also where the Inspector visits the premises and reports them to be suitable, the school will be at once placed on the Annual Grant List, and the managers' attention will be called to Article 11 (d), which, as modified by the Minute of 24th July, 1893, requires them to submit the Time Table in duplicate to the Inspector, and they will be supplied with Forms for the annual returns. At the same time the Inspector will receive the Form (10 N.) for his report, a form which will in future be detached from that on which the managers make their return.

2. Unless he is specially directed to do so, it will not be necessary that the Inspector should pay a visit to the school before, or immediately after, its being placed on the Annual Grant List. He should, if possible, visit every Evening School (except perhaps small schools in country districts) at least twice during its Session, but he will exercise his own judgment as to the date of his visits. After the last of such visits he will be able to fill up his Report, but he will not send it in until he receives the Managers' Returns (Forms 9 N and 65) after the close of the School Session. He will then send all the Forms together to the Department.

3. Paragraph IV. of the Explanatory Memorandum prefixed to the Code lays down what the Inspector is to aim at in his visits, and how he is to attain it.

The following suggestions are made with reference to the subdivisions of that paragraph:—

- (a) In small rural schools in remote districts one visit may in most cases suffice. In larger schools, which will be usually more accessible, two visits at least should be paid; one of these should be paid early, in the former half of the Session, to observe methods and arrangements, and to discuss with the Managers and Teachers the value and suitability of the subjects taught; the second, in the latter half, to observe the progress made, and to review notebooks or other records of the work done.

- (b) Where the principal Teacher is not certificated, Article 1C requires that he should be approved by the Inspector. It is not thought necessary that the Inspector should in all cases pay a preliminary visit for the purpose of approval. If at his first ordinary visit he is not satisfied with a Teacher, it will be well to give a warning, specifying at the same time the grounds of his dissatisfaction.

Success in an examination conducted by some competent body may be taken as satisfactory evidence of the attainments of a teacher. Where there is no such evidence, the Inspector's judgment must be based on observation of a lesson. As regards power of teaching, treatment of the subject of a lesson and the attention and order of the school or class will be the principal points for consideration.

It is probable that in some Evening Schools, as in Day Schools, the same Teacher may be superintending the work of two or three small classes. In such cases it will be necessary to judge how far the superintendence of the teacher is effectual.

The Inspector's opinion on the course of instruction should be based chiefly on the syllabus of lessons, which every teacher should be expected to draw up. You should impress upon managers and teachers that it is very desirable that a brief record should be kept of the progress of the class in each subject from week to week. Such a record will show how far the syllabus has proved suitable to the capacities of the class, and will help the Inspector in framing his questions and in forming a just opinion on the value of the teaching.

- (c) It is necessary that every subject should be made a subject of inspection for the payment of the higher or lower grant, and that in two subjects at least the Inspector should question the scholars. He should, if possible, hear a lesson in every subject and should (when necessary) supplement his observation by questioning the scholars. In exceptional cases he may find it useful to take away with him and examine the exercises. It will probably be often necessary for his convenience to shorten the lessons when he has satisfied himself as to their value. It is essential that no question should arise as to his decision in regard either of hurry or confusion, and the Time Table should be gone through, if possible, in the usual routine; but the Inspector is not absolutely bound to adhere to the Time Table, and in small schools he may find it necessary to take all the subjects in one evening, though the Time Table may provide otherwise.

- (d) As regards the suitability of the rooms, the managers should be advised that the ordinary school desks which are suitable for young scholars are ill adapted for adults, and that by means of chairs and trestle tables a cheap and convenient method of seating may be obtained. It would be well too in certain cases to have moveable lights. The offices should be separate for the two sexes, and sanitary.

APPENDIX 3.

GRANTS FOR DRAWING IN EVENING CONTINUATION SCHOOLS.

The examination of scholars of Evening Continuation Schools in Drawing by the Science and Art Department is discontinued, and Her Majesty's Inspectors will in future inspect and report upon the instruction in this subject. The amount and conditions of the grant are shown in Article 15* of the Evening Continuation School Code.

The grant for Drawing will be transmitted to the managers by the Board of Education together with the annual grant due to the school in respect of the rest of the instruction. Being still charged to the Science and Art vote, the grant for Drawing is not reckoned as part of the annual grant (Article 13 of the Code), and therefore does not come within the operation of Article 17 of the Code.

SYLLABUS FOR DRAWING IN EVENING CONTINUATION SCHOOLS.

Explanatory Note.

The objects of the course of instruction in Drawing in Evening Continuation Schools should be both to provide scholars who have not had an opportunity of going through the entire course of Drawing in the Elementary School with the means of perfecting themselves in the Elementary Drawing therein provided for, and to assist such scholars or others to carry that instruction forward. A sample syllabus is given below, but Managers are not restricted to it. They may propose a syllabus or scheme of their own. Such alternative syllabus or scheme must be submitted to and approved by the Inspector at the beginning of the session.

DRAWING MATERIALS, &c.

The materials to be used in Drawing may be lead pencil, chalk, and water colours. The use of water colours should not be attempted until some mastery in drawing with the pencil and chalk has been acquired.

Practice in Drawing with compasses, scales, rulers, curves, and such like instruments should be concurrent with freehand drawing.

The Drawings may be done either from flat examples or from actual objects and things, and should be done in outline first of all; the representation of effects of light and shade may be practised subsequently.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The course is divided into sections for the convenience of Managers, but any parts of the course may be proposed.

Section A.

(1.) Freehand Drawing in outline from flat examples of ornamental forms and objects composed of straight and curved lines*; with a pencil or chalk; with a brush and tint of colour.

(2.) Drawing in outline with rulers and compasses, enlarged or reduced copies of diagrams of geometrical figures,† and of objects of simple geometrical construction,† such as simple forms of building or machine construction; and learning how to take measurements of such simple objects.

Section B.

(1.) Freehand Drawing in outline from simple objects; (a) having straight lines, such as a salt-box, a ladder; (b) having curved lines, such as a flower-pot, a jug with handle; (c) having straight and curved lines combined, such as a wheel-barrow, an arched doorway, or single flowers and fruits and large leaves.

(2.) Drawing in outline with rulers, scales, and compasses (plans, elevations, and sections) from measurements made by the student himself of actual objects of simple construction, such as a box, a panelled door, three or four steps in a flight of stairs.

(3.) Drawing in outline with rulers, scales, and compasses from diagrams of machines or parts of machines more complicated than those in A. (2); and practice in the representation of varying tones of shadow, and of different materials in building constructions, by lines, and by tints of colour.

Section C.

(1.) Freehand Drawing in outline from casts of architectural mouldings and ornamental forms; or from real fruits, flowers, or plants.

(2.) Drawing in outline with instruments from measurements (plans, elevations, and sections) of mechanical objects, such as a cog-wheel, a tap, a door-lock and chain.

Section D.

(1.) Freehand Drawing in light and shade with pencil and chalk, from simple objects of domestic use, sprays of foliage, flowers, and fruits, and casts of architectural mouldings, and ornamental forms.

(2.) Practice in arranging colours, by tinting freehand outline drawings of ornament, with not more than four flat tints of colour.

(3.) Tinted and shaded Drawing with instruments, in ink, tints of colours, &c. (plans, elevations, and sections) from measurements and specifications of objects of simple construction.

Section E.

Freehand Drawing in light and shade, with brush and water colours, from objects as in D. (1).

* These might be similar, if the Managers desire, to those in Standards IV. and V. of the Elementary School Illustrated Syllabus.

† As in Standards IV. and V.

CONTAIN THE NUMBER OF SCHOOLS IN WHICH THE PERCENTAGE OF THE ACTUAL SCHOOL REGISTERS ON THE LAST DAY OF THE SCHOOL YEAR IS THAT GIVEN AT THE percentage that the average attendance has been bad. E.g. If the numbers on the School Register on the last day are uniform throughout the twelve months. Thus a school increasing in numbers shews a lower percentage than a hundred. Schools also which have many half-timers shew a lower percentage than Schools in which all the

* In an infant class in which the average attendance is less than 20, the attendances of the Scholars of such class will be reckoned with those of the older Scholars (Art. 98).
† Article 12b says:—"The attendance of a half-timer for less than two consecutive hours is not recognised, but such two consecutive hours are reckoned as an attendance and a half."

‡ Article 101* allows of the Department to compensate for the attendances of children excluded from school on account of infectious diseases.
§ Article 13 says:—"No attendance is as a rule recognised for any scholar under three years of age, or for any scholar who has passed in the three elementary subjects in Standard VII, and is upwards of fourteen years of age, or for any scholar while habitually employed as a monitor."

* The "grant earned" is the gross amount of grant before any deductions have been made under Articles 82, 92, 100 and 108. The "grant paid" is the net amount after deductions. In Table 3 will be found, under the various denominations, the total grants earned, the deductions incurred, and the grants actually paid.
† For the purposes of the Tables 19-21 a common basis of a year's grant has been taken for all schools, and for all subjects. Some schools, however, have received grants for more or less than twelve months (Article 97), and in other schools, certain grants may not have been earned for the whole year. A few items of the grant for last year were paid at the beginning of this year, and are not included in these tables. The difference between all the grants calculated on the common basis of a year's grant, and the amount actually paid is given above.
‡ The rate of Annual Grant per scholar in actual average attendance is (as shown in Table 16) £1 0s. 10½d.

* No more than two class subjects may be taken by any class, but the subjects taken may be different for different classes.
† Where necessary, the grant for each subject is taken by the girls as a class subject, & corresponding subject need not be taken by the boys.
‡ The grants for each of average attendance are 1s. or 2s. for a first-class subject, and 1s. or 2s. for a second class subject. The Department decide on the amount after considering the report of the Inspector. (Art. 101 c. of the Code). § Domestic Economy has also been taken as a specific subject (see Table 27).

* For Returns under each Subject, see Table No. 27. All the hours during which any registered scholar has received instruction during the school year in any specific subject in which not less than 40 hours instruction has been given during the school year, shall be added together, and a grant of 1s. or 6d. shall be paid for every complete 24 hours (Article 101 (f) of the Code).

† No time may be counted for any scholar on account of more than two specific subjects.

‡ The Department shall decide which, if either, of the sums of 1s. and 6d. shall be paid after considering the report and recommendation of the Inspector.

§ The Grant of 2s. is made if the boy has attended not less than 20 hours at a Gardening class of not more than 14 scholars, or of 4s. if he has attended not less than 40 hours.

¶ Table 16 shows the total number of schools in which these subjects were taught.

 The Department shall decide which, if either, of the sums of 6s. or 7s. shall be paid after considering the report of the Inspector.

* The sum mentioned is the amount of a year's grant for each unit of average attendance.
† The 6s. grant shows that the discipline has been highly satisfactory, and that excellent provision has been made for (1) suitable instruction in the elementary subjects, (2) simple lessons on objects and on the phenomena of nature and of common life, and (3) appropriate and varied occupations. The 4s. grant shows that the discipline has been satisfactory, and that the provision under (1) has been good, and that under (2) and (3) fair. The 2s. grant shows that the discipline has been satisfactory, and that the provision under (1) has been fairly good, and under (2) or (3) fair.
‡ The boys may be taught needlework or drawing. If they are not taught either subject, the grant is calculated on the average attendance of girls only.

* For the purposes of the Fixed and Variable Grants the total number of hours during which instruction has been given, pursuant to the conditions of the Code, are added together and a Grant is made for every complete 12 hours. The Department decide which, if either, of the sums of 1s. and 1s. 6d. shall be paid for the Variable Grant. The Grants for Cookery, Laundry Work, Dairy Work, and Drawing are paid on the individual scholar. The amount of the Cookery Grant and of the Dairy Work Grant depends on the number of hours given to instruction.

* By the Minute of the 20 February 1867, incorporated into the Code of 1868, extra grants, limited to 8*s.* a school, were offered, provided inter alia that the time-table of the school provided "for one or more specific subjects of secular instruction beyond" reading, writing, and arithmetic. The Code of 1871 first offered "a grant of 3*s.* per subject for every day scholar presented in Standards IV.-VI. who passes a satisfactory examination in not more than two of such subjects." In the four months ending 31 August 1871, 19,485 scholars were presented in specific subjects.

† By the Code of 1876 grammar, history, and elementary geography were from the 31 March 1876 to be considered class subjects. Algebra, Euclid, and mensuration became "mathematics." The grant for specific subjects was raised to 4*s.* per subject, and children who had passed Standard VI. were allowed to take up three subjects.

‡ By the Code of 1882 English and physical geography were, from the 30 April 1883, added to the class subjects. Any scholar in Standards V.-VII. was allowed to be presented in not "more than two specific subjects." Mathematics were divided into "algebra" and "Euclid and mensuration."

§ By the Code of 1890 Euclid and mensuration were recognised as separate subjects.

|| By the Code of 1892 the grant for specific subjects was, after the 31 August, 1897, "2s. or 3s. for each scholar presented in any specific subject." No scholar could be presented in more than two specific subjects, and the Department was to decide "which, if either, of these sums of 2s. or 3s. shall be paid, after considering the report and recommendation of the Inspector."

¶ Elementary science, experimental mechanics, fruit culture, geology, history, horticulture, hygiene, manual instruction and applied drawing, natural philosophy, navigation, physiography, practical science, political economy, and social economy.

 For any school year beginning after 31 August 1897, in place of the grant payable on examination of individual scholars "all the hours during which any registered scholar has received instruction . . . shall be added together, and a grant of 1s. or 6d. shall be paid for every complete 24 hours." (Code of 1897.)

* Class Subjects were first introduced into the Code of 1875, and were originally confined to Grammar, Geography, History, and Needlework. When afterwards extended to any other subjects that "could be reasonably accepted as special branches of elementary instruction," it was found that new subjects had not been taken up to any considerable extent. By the Code of 1882—applying to grants which fell due on and after the 30th April 1883—the recognised Class Subjects were stated to be English, Geography, Elementary Science, History, and Needlework (for girls).

† During the years 1884-90 schools teaching Class Subjects were compelled to take up English; and History was confined to the upper standards.

‡ Drawing was a Class Subject for these two years. It was so taught in 240 schools in 1886, and in 505 schools in 1887. Schools were allowed to take up three subjects.

§ By the Code of 1893 Welsh (in Wales) was added to the Class Subjects.

|| By the Code of 1894 Domestic Economy (for Girls) was added to the Class Subjects.

¶ By the Code of 1895 Object Lessons and Suitable Occupations for Standards I.-III. were added to the Class Subjects. By the Code of 1896 Object Lessons were made obligatory as the First Class Subject in Standards I., II. and III., for any school year beginning after the 31st August 1896. By the Code of 1898 Object Lessons ceased to be a Class Subject, but one of the Class Subjects must be taught by means of Object Lessons in Standards I., II., and III. (This alteration of the Code accounts for the great increase in the numbers of the departments in which Elementary Science has been taught, as that subject is generally selected to be taught by means of Object Lessons.)

* The Code of 1875 allowed attendance at lessons in Practical Cookery approved by the Inspector to count as school attendance, but no grant was made for its practical teaching to schools whose grants fell due before the 30th April, 1883.
† The Code of 1890 first offered grants for the practical teaching of Laundry Work.
‡ The Code of 1893 first offered grants for the practical teaching of Dairy Work.
§ The Code of 1896 first offered grants for the practical teaching of Cottage Gardening.
¶ The Code of 1890 allowed time occupied in Manual Instruction, whether or not it was given on the school premises, to count as school attendance. Grants for Manual Instruction were first paid by the Education Department under the Code of 1898, therefore for that year a small proportion only of the schools in which it was given could receive a grant from the Education Department.

* The averages under (1), (3), and (4) are taken from the returns furnished by the schools to the Education Department. The average under (2) is the average grant actually paid. The grants paid in one year appear in the school returns of the following year, and the amount per child contributed by the Education Department towards maintenance is therefore determined by the average attendance of that following year. E.g., the average attendance in board schools in 1873 was 69,983, and the total annual grant paid was 34,706*l.*, which gave an average grant per child in average attendance of 5*s.* 11*d.* When the grants were brought to account in 1874 the average attendance in board schools was 138,293, and 34,706*l.*, divided by 138,293 gives only 5*s.* per child. Hence the average cost of maintenance of 1*l.* 15*s.* 4½*d.* per child was met by 5*s.* from the Education Department, 20*s.* 8½*d.* from rates, and 8*s.* 4*d.* from fees. The remaining 1*s.* 4*d.* came from other sources.

† The decrease in the average school fees in 1892 and thereafter is owing to the operation of the Elementary Education Act, 1891, under which a fee grant of ten shillings is payable to schools willing to receive it, which comply with the conditions of the Act.

SCHOOL BOARDS.

DISTRICTS IN WHICH SCHOOL BOARDS HAVE BEEN FORMED PURSUANT TO THE ELEMENTARY EDUCATION ACTS, 1870 AND 1873, AND THE ELEMENTARY EDUCATION (ORDERS) ACT, 1874.

Explanations :—In the following list, U.D. signifies United District. The names of the Parishes comprised in the U.D. are set forth under the title.

The names of BOROUGHs are printed in SMALL CAPITALS, and of Parishes in italic type; and (C.B.) is affixed to the names of County Boroughs. An Asterisk * is prefixed to the name of each Board formed under sec. 12 (2), and (c.) to that of each Board formed compulsorily under sec. 10 or 40 of the Elementary Education Act, 1870.

Wanstead School District.

Yes. The contractor will pay to the whole of the workmen employed in connection with this contract such rate of wages and observe such hours of labour as are recognised by the workmen's trade union and in force at the time of signing this contract.

In the event of a breach of the foregoing clause the contractor shall pay to the board the sum of _____ per day for every breach thereof; the non-payment of the rate of wages recognised by the workmen's trade union, and the non-observance of the hours of labour of such union shall, with reference to each workman in the employ of the contractor be deemed to be a separate breach of contract under the said clause.

West Thurrock.

The contracts contain no condition as to wages, but contain a condition as to the persons employed by the contractor.

"The said builder shall at all times employ good and competent workmen upon the said works, and such as are careful and skilful in their several trades, and if the said architect shall object to any workman or other person employed by the said builder in or about the said works who, in his opinion, is incompetent for the proper performance of his duties, or who has, in his opinion, misconducted himself, it shall be lawful for the said architect to discharge such workman or workmen, and the said builder shall, without delay, put another workman or other workmen in his or their place."

BRISTOL C.B. Yes. "No part of this work shall be sub-let without the written sanction of the architect countersigned by the clerk of the Board, but such sanction shall not be withheld unreasonably. Only qualified workmen are to be employed, and the contractor shall pay the rate of wages and observe the hours of labour ordinarily recognised in the various trades in the district. The contractor shall be held responsible in the event of any breach of the conditions of this contract by the person or persons to whom any portion of the work is sub-let and in addition to any other remedy which the board may have, the contractor shall for each breach, forfeit to the board the sum of 5l. which shall be deemed liquidated damages, and may be recovered from him by action or deducted by the Board from any sum due to the contractor under this contract." GLOUCESTER C.B. On the 24th July 1893, the following resolution was passed by the Board, and since that date in all contracts entered into by the Board, this clause has been inserted:— "That this Board before accepting any contract for the new schools in Linden Road be satisfied that the proposed contractor is prepared to conform to the spirit of the following resolution. "That in future in all contracts or work required for this council, preference be given whenever practicable to local tradesmen. CORRESPONDENCE.

No. 1.

From MR. COWIE, ASSISTANT SECRETARY, EDUCATION DEPARTMENT, to the CLERK OF THE SCHOOL ATTENDANCE COMMITTEE OF THE FARNWORTH URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL.

Education Department,
Whitehall, London, S.W.,

SIR,

12 February, 1900.

Their Lordships' attention has been called to the fact that your Committee have issued since the 1st January, 1900, labour certificates to two children,—Elizabeth Crompton, of 9, Princess Street, Farnworth, and Joseph Jones, of 25, Ross Street, Farnworth, neither of whom were 12 years of age on the 1st January last, and neither of whom are to be employed in agriculture.

The certificate in the case of Joseph Jones is given in a form not prescribed by this Department, being headed "Partial Exemption under Byelaw 2(b)". I am to point out that there is no such thing as partial exemption under Byelaw 2(b). My Lords will be glad to receive at an early date an explanation as to the issue of these certificates with reference to the alterations in the law of school attendance made by the Elementary Education (School Attendance) Act (1893) Amendment Act, 1899, which came into force on the 1st January, 1900.

I have, &c.

No. 2.

From the CLERK OF THE SCHOOL ATTENDANCE COMMITTEE OF THE FARNWORTH URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL to the SECRETARY OF THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

School Attendance Committee,
Farnworth, R.S.O.,

SIR,

26 March, 1900.

I submitted your letter of the 12th February, No. 4,848, to the School Attendance Committee, and in reply I am instructed to say that the certificates were granted to the children named as the Committee were of opinion that exemption certificates may be issued at any age between the ages of five and thirteen years provided there is a "reasonable excuse" for absence from School as defined in Byelaw 2(b).

These children being eleven years of age—the age required by the Factory Act, 1891, and the Local Authority being satisfied that the children would be "beneficially and necessarily employed" in factory work—necessarily, as the earnings were required for the maintenance of the family, and beneficially, as the extra earnings would materially affect the development of the children—the circumstances of the families warranted the issue of the certificates.

The opinion of the Committee appears to have been confirmed by Mr. Robson in his remarks in reply to Colonel Mellor, when the Bill was introduced to the House of Commons.

As regards the alteration of the form by the addition of the words "partial exemption under Byelaw 2(b)," these words were inserted so that the employer would know that no liability would be incurred by employing the children under twelve years of age, as special exemption from school attendance had been obtained. Seeing, however, that Their Lordships take exception to this addition of the words, steps will be taken to prevent its recurrence.

The Committee would thank Their Lordships to say if this interpretation of the law is the right one, and trust the foregoing explanation will be considered satisfactory.

The Secretary,
Education Department,
Whitehall, S.W.

I am, &c.
(Signed) DAVID CROSSLEY.

No. 3.

FROM MR. WHITE, PRINCIPAL ASSISTANT SECRETARY, BOARD OF EDUCATION, to the CLERK OF THE SCHOOL ATTENDANCE COM-MITTEE OF THE FARNWORTH URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL.

Board of Education,
Whitehall, S.W.,

SIR,

17th April, 1900.

ADVERTING to your letter, dated the 26th ultimo, I am directed to point out that the only recognised "exemption" certificates are those granted for the purpose of employment in accordance with the regulations of the Board of Education, and given in the form therein prescribed, and that those certificates can only be granted when the child has reached the age and has satisfied the conditions prescribed in the byelaws for total or partial exemption.

In cases where these conditions are not satisfied the issue of a labour certificate is illegal, nor would the production of such certificate relieve the employer of the child of the liability incurred by him. The Board of Education must decline to regard employment under any circumstances as an unavoidable cause preventing a child from attending School within the meaning of section 74, sub-section 5(2), Elementary Education Act, 1870, and therefore as constituting a reasonable excuse for non-attendance. Since the passing of the Elementary Education (School Attendance) Act, 1899, the employment of a child under 12 (except in agriculture under certain special conditions) is illegal (Elementary Education (School Attendance) Act, 1893, section 2), and it cannot seriously be contended that the fact of being illegally employed constitutes a reasonable excuse for non-attendance at School.

D. Crossley, Esq.,
Clerk to the Farnworth
School Attendance Committee,
Farnworth, R.S.O.

I have, &c.
(Signed) JOHN WHITE.

Copy of the Byelaw referred to in this Correspondence.

2. The parent of every child of not less than 5, nor more than 13 years of age, shall cause such child to attend School, unless there be a reasonable excuse for non-attendance.

Reasonable Excuses.

Any of the following reasons shall be a reasonable excuse, namely:—

- (a) That the child is under efficient instruction in some other manner.
- (b) That the child has been prevented from attending School by sickness or any unavoidable cause.
- (c) That there is no Public Elementary School open which the child can attend within two miles, measured according to the nearest road from the residence of such child.

Principal Assistant Secretary, of the Board of Education.

VOLUNTARY SCHOOLS ACT, 1897.

[60 VICT. c. 5.]

A.D. 1897. AN ACT to provide for a Grant out of the Exchequer in Aid of Voluntary Elementary Schools, and for the Exemption from Rates of those Schools, and to repeal part of Section Nineteen of the Elementary Education Act, 1876.

[8th April 1897.]

BE it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :

Aid grant to voluntary elementary schools.

1.—(1.) For aiding voluntary schools there shall be annually paid out of moneys provided by Parliament an aid grant, not exceeding in the aggregate five shillings per scholar for the whole number of scholars in those schools.

(2.) The aid grant shall be distributed by the Education Department to such voluntary schools and in such manner and amounts as the Department think best for the purpose of helping necessitous schools and increasing their efficiency, due regard being had to the maintenance of voluntary subscriptions.

(3.) If associations of schools are constituted in such manner in such areas and with such governing bodies representative of the managers as are approved by the Education Department, there shall be allotted to each association while so approved,

(a) A share of the aid grant to be computed according to the number of scholars in the schools of the association at the rate of five shillings per scholar, or, if the Department fix different rates for town and country schools respectively (which they are hereby empowered to do) then at those rates ; and

(b) A corresponding share of any sum which may be available out of the aid grant after distribution has been made to unassociated schools.

(4.) The share so allotted to each such association shall be distributed as aforesaid by the Education Department after consulting the governing body of the association, and in accordance with any scheme prepared by that body which the Department for the time being approve.

(5.) The Education Department may exclude a school from any share of the aid grant which it might otherwise receive, if, in the opinion of the Department, it unreasonably refuses or fails to join such an association, but the refusal or failure shall not be deemed unreasonable if the majority of the schools in the association belong to a religious denomination to which the school in question does not itself belong.

Voluntary Schools Act, 1897.

(6.) The Education Department may require, as a condition of a school receiving a share of the aid grant, that the accounts of the receipts and expenditure of the school shall be annually audited in accordance with the regulations of the Department. A.D. 1897.

(7.) The decision of the Education Department upon any question relating to the distribution or allotment of the aid grant, including the question whether an association is or is not in conformity with this Act, and whether a school is a town or a country school, shall be final.

2. After the last day of March, One thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven, the following words in section nineteen of the Elementary Education Act, 1876, namely, "such grant shall not in any year be reduced by reason of its excess above the income of the school if the grant do not exceed the amount of seven-teen shillings and sixpence per child in average attendance at the school during that year, but shall not exceed that amount per child, except by the same sum by which the income of the school derived from voluntary contributions, rates, school fees, endowments, or any source whatever other than the Parliamentary grant, exceeds the said amount per child, and" shall be repealed so far as they apply to day schools in England and Wales. Repeal of 17s. 6d. limit in 39 and 40 Vict., c. 79, s. 19, as respects day schools in England and Wales.

3. No person shall be assessed or rated to or for any local rate in respect of any land or buildings used exclusively or mainly for the purposes of the schoolrooms, offices, or playground of a voluntary school, except to the extent of any profit derived by the managers of the school from the letting thereof. Exemption from rates of voluntary elementary schools.

4. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires—

Definitions.

The expression "voluntary school" means a public elementary day school not provided by a school board :

Any reference to the number of scholars in schools means the number of scholars in average attendance as computed by the Education Department :

The expression "local rate" means a rate the proceeds of which are applicable to public local purposes, and which is leviable on the basis of an assessment in respect of the yearly value of property, and includes any sum which, though obtained in the first instance by a precept, certificate or other instrument requiring payment from some authority or officer, is or can be ultimately raised out of a local rate as before defined :

Other expressions have the same meaning as in the Elementary Education Acts, 1870 to 1893.

5.—(1.) This Act shall not extend to Scotland or Ireland.

VOLUNTARY SCHOOLS ACT, 1897.

MINUTE of the Lords of the Committee of the Privy Council on Education.

At the Council Chamber, Whitehall,

*The 9th day of April 1897.*By the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council on Education.

Their Lordships, having had under consideration Section 1 of the Voluntary Schools Act, 1897, read and approved the following Minute:—

1. The Aid Grant will be allotted according as schools are grouped together in Associations recognised by the Department, or are not so grouped.

2. As a general rule, an Association will not be recognised by the Department unless it extends over a sufficiently wide area, and includes a large number of schools.

3. An Association may include schools of all denominations. More than one Association may be recognised in the same area, but only one Association may be recognised as providing exclusively for schools of the same denomination in the same area.

4. Subject to the provisions of Sub-sections (1) and (3) (a) of Clause 1 of the Act, the rate of Aid Grant per scholar in average attendance, for the purposes of allotment, will be prescribed by the Department for each financial year, and will differ according as the scholar is in a school situate in a town or in the country. The rate prescribed for each scholar in average attendance in a town school will be somewhat higher than that for each scholar in average attendance in a country school.

5. The Aid Grant will be allotted to each Association upon the basis of the average attendance of scholars in the schools of the Association. The average attendance in each school, for the purposes of the Aid Grant in each financial year, will be taken to be the average attendance for the school year ended next before the 1st day of August last preceding.

6. Out of the sum not at first allotted to the Associations, Aid Grant will, subject to the provisions contained in Sub-section (5) of Clause 1 of the Act, be awarded to such of the unassociated schools as require special aid, and so far as such aid is in the opinion of the Department required.

7. The surplus (if any) of the Aid Grant remaining, after setting aside a sum sufficient to satisfy the needs of the unassociated schools under the last preceding paragraph, will be allotted amongst the Associations upon the same basis of distribution as has been specified above, with regard to their original share of the Aid Grant.

8. The Aid Grant to schools in Associations will be distributed to the schools in each Association, in accordance with a scheme prepared by the Governing Body of the Association and approved by the Department, under Sub-section (4) of Clause (1) of the Act. In order to aid the Department in forming a judgment on the schemes submitted to Them, the purposes to which the grant is to be devoted in the case of the various schools aided, should as far as possible be specifically stated.

9. The Aid Grant to schools not in Associations will be distributed to such schools in accordance with the decision of the Department, having regard to the provisions of Sub-section (2) of Clause 1 of the Act.

10. Payment of the Aid Grant to the schools entitled to receive it will be made at such times and in such manner as the Department may direct.

MINUTE of the Committee of Council on Education, dated 16th June, 1897, defining "Town School" and "Country School," and fixing Rates of Aid Grant for such Schools (Voluntary Schools Act, 1897).

At the Council Chamber, Whitehall,

The 16th day of June 1897.

By the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council on Education.

The Lords of the Committee of Council on Education, having had under consideration the Voluntary Schools Act, 1897 :—

Decided,—

A Voluntary School, which on the first day of April in any year is situated within the District of the County Council of London, or within a County Borough, Municipal Borough, or other Urban District, shall be a Town School for the purpose of any allotment of the Aid Grant under Section 1, 3 (a), of the Act during the year beginning the same 1st day of April, and any School not so situated shall be a Country School for the same purpose.

Their Lordships further decided, in virtue of the powers vested in them by the said Act, that until the issue of any further Minute in that behalf, the following rates be fixed for Town and Country Schools respectively :—

For Town Schools the rate of 5s. 9d. per scholar.

For Country Schools the rate of 3s. 3d. per scholar.

S C H E M E S

UNDER

THE VOLUNTARY SCHOOLS ACT.

[This Memorandum incorporates as much of the Circulars of 18th April, 1898, and 29th March, 1899, as appears to be of permanent application.]

I. The first point to be considered in the preparation of a Scheme is the relative necessity of the individual Schools. Care should be taken to select with strict and impartial discrimination the cases of real necessity, and to confine the recommendations, as far as possible, to such cases only. There are, of course, many schools whose resources are sufficient for their ordinary expenditure, but not sufficient to meet some special and exceptional requirement. These cases may be exceptionally dealt with, and a grant recommended pro hac vice commensurate with the special need. The amount of grant recommended should always be fixed in accordance with the special needs of each particular School, and not on any automatic principle based on average attendance.

II. Under the Voluntary Schools Act the Aid Grant must be distributed with "due regard to the maintenance of Voluntary Subscriptions." The Governing Bodies have been furnished from time to time with Schedules of Schools where the Voluntary Contributions have declined, and with copies of the explanations tendered by the Managers. It is hoped that the cases of such Schools will be carefully considered by the Governing Bodies when preparing their next Schemes.

In the case of those Schools where, after due warning, Voluntary Contributions are not forthcoming, or are less than might be reasonably expected, it will be the duty of the Governing Body to reduce the amount of Aid Grant, or even to withhold it altogether. It will be convenient for them to inform the Board of Education of any cases where this is done. The Board may be unable to sanction recommendations of Aid Grant to Schools whose Managers have not made reasonable efforts to secure for them a proper measure of local support.

A diminution of local support seems often to be brought about less by a loss of individual subscriptions than by a relaxation or diversion, of local effort in the form of collections, bazaars, entertainments, and the like, or by letting drop contributions previously obtained from Endowments, Charitable Funds, and Educational Societies. Wherever income formerly drawn from such sources has disappeared, the Governing Body should enquire into the facts, and satisfy themselves as to whether the loss to the school is unavoidable.

In close connection with the question of Voluntary Contributions comes the charge of a rent (as determining the amount of effective local support towards the maintenance of the school). It has been found that, in certain cases, a new rent, or an increased rent, has been charged since the passing of the Voluntary Schools Act. In all such cases which have come under notice an enquiry has been made, and in a few extreme instances the Aid Grant has been withheld unless the charge for rent or additional rent is discontinued. It does not at present appear desirable to make any precise regulation, but, as a general rule, any charge for a new rent or additional rent should be met from other sources than the grants. The Governing Body should give the circumstances under which any rent is charged special consideration before recommending an award of Aid Grant.

III. The chief purposes to which Aid Grant may be applied have been grouped under three heads—

- (a) Improvement of teaching power.
- (b) Improvement of School equipment.
- (c) Making adequate provision for the maintenance of due efficiency.

(a) The first of these heads includes all such purposes as augmenting the School Staff, the engagement of more highly qualified teachers, the better instruction of pupil teachers by means of Central Classes or otherwise, provision for teaching Cookery or other special subjects, and encouragement of good work and proper support of the teachers by the payment of adequate salaries. Before recommending a grant to increase salaries, the Governing Body should satisfy themselves that the existing salaries are inadequate, and that the qualifications and necessities of the teacher are such as to warrant the increase. They should further ascertain and clearly state to what class of teachers, whether Head or Assistant, the increase is to be given.

Before a grant is recommended to maintain an increase in salaries made since the passing of the Voluntary Schools Act, it should be ascertained that such increase has actually taken place. It should further be understood that the mere fact of a portion of the Aid Grant having been applied to an increased scale of salaries in one year does not in itself constitute a claim for a renewal of the grant in future years. The increased scale must be a suitable one, and the circumstances of the school must still be such as to make the proposed grant reasonable both in purpose and amount. A grant to maintain increased salaries should not exceed the nett amount by which the total expenditure on the Staff has been actually increased.

(b) Equipment.—Under this head may be grouped all such objects as repairs and improvements of School premises, replacement or improvement of furniture, requisite apparatus, and the like.

Special care should be taken to ensure that the grant will be applied to the minor improvements of existing premises only, and not to additional buildings, and the provisions of Article 90 should be held in view. The precise nature of the improvement contemplated should in each case be ascertained and clearly defined in the recommendation made to the Board.

In recommending grants under this head the intention should be to enable the School to meet some special outlay which could not be defrayed out of the ordinary income of the School, and not, as has occurred in some cases, to meet the necessary annual expenditure on such items as stationery and trivial repairs.

(c) Making adequate provision for the maintenance of due efficiency.

It has always been recognised by the Board that in a large number of cases the Aid Grant must wholly or in part be devoted to the maintenance of the existing standard of efficiency. But grants to meet a necessary annual deficit require to be made with special care and discretion. In Form 5 (V.S.) it is proposed that "grant to meet the deficit" should be applied to maintaining the normal expenditure on (a) Salaries, or (b) Books, Apparatus and Stationery. By this means it is hoped that the Governing Body and the Board will be able to satisfy themselves that the grant has been used in such a manner as will benefit the School.

A deficit on a school account means the amount by which a year's actual expenditure for the support of the School exceeds, or, in the case of an estimated deficit, is likely to exceed, the actual income received during the same year, inclusive of the Annual and Fee Grants.

Before recommending any grant to meet deficit, the Governing Body should have special regard to the amount of local support afforded to the School. Where the amount of such support is materially below what might be reasonably expected, and where the lack of funds appears to arise from apathetic management, the Governing Body will exercise a wise discretion in not recommending any grant to meet a deficit. Still less should a grant be recommended (save in exceptional cases) to meet a deficit which has arisen from a diminution in the amount of the Voluntary Subscriptions.

On the other hand, the Governing Body should be on their guard against any case where the deficit may have arisen from unwarrantable expenditure, from the adoption of too ambitious a curriculum, or from an improvident use of the existing School Funds.

It is desirable that all schools should be raised to as high a degree of efficiency as possible. It is, however, more important to increase the efficiency of those Schools where the standard is not above, or is even below, the average than it is to enable an altogether exceptional standard to be maintained in a few Schools. The Governing Body may, therefore, properly refuse to recommend a grant to meet deficit, where such deficit is in their opinion due to over lavish expenditure, or to the adoption of a curriculum which is not well adapted to the circumstances of the School, or to the needs of the district in which the School is situated.

xii Schemes under the Voluntary Schools Act.

(d) In Form 5 (V.S.) an opportunity is given for the Governing Body to recommend a grant for some purpose which would not come under any of the three previous heads. It has not often been found necessary to propose such a purpose. "Rent" in any form cannot be approved as a purpose for Aid Grant. Nor is "Fuel, Light and Cleaning" suitable. This latter item of expenditure is one that should be met in all schools out of ordinary income; a grant to pay for it is merely a grant to meet deficit.

April, 1900.

I.—List of Associations constituted under the Voluntary Schools Act, 1897, showing for each Association, the area, the number of Schools, the total average attendance as computed in accordance with the Minute of 9th April 1897, and the share of Aid Grant allotted for the financial year ending 31st March 1900.

NOTE.

The average attendance is the total average attendance of the Scholars in the Schools of the Association for the School years ended next before 1st August 1898. (See paragraph 5 of the Minute of the Committee of Council, dated 9th April 1897).

ARTICLE 86 runs as follows :—

"The school or infant class must be efficient. A school or class is regarded as satisfying this Article if the Inspector does not recommend the withholding of the grant under Article 98 (a), Article 98 (b), Article 101 (a), or Article 101 (b). The grant will not be withheld under this Article until the following conditions have been fulfilled :—

"(1.) The Inspector must, at his annual visit, report the school or class inefficient, and state specifically the grounds of such judgment, and the Department must with the report give formal warning to the managers that the grant may be withheld under this Article at the next annual inspection, if the Inspector again reports the school or class to be inefficient.

"(2.) The Inspector must, at his annual visit next after such report, again report the school or class inefficient, and again state specifically the grounds of such judgment.

"(3.) If the managers, within fourteen days after the receipt of the second adverse report of the Inspector, appeal against his decision, the school must be visited and such adverse report must be confirmed by a Chief Inspector."

QUARTERLY RETURNS, by COUNTIES, of the PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—(1.) Which have been warned by the Board of Education under Article 86 of the Code, including Schools from which the Grant has been withheld under that Article; (2.) Which have been warned by the Board of Education that the Annual Grant will, in future, be withheld unless Defects in the School Premises are remedied; (3.) The Annual Grants to which have been suspended for Three Months or more from the Date of the receipt by the Board of Education of the Inspector's Report, on account of Defects in School Premises (in continuation of Parliamentary Paper, No. 177, of Session 1899).
